T. E. Trackwell Declares His Sister's
Money Was Used by Owners of
Gold Fish "Farm."

ABOUT $16,000 IS INVOLVED

Suit Sent Here From Shelby County
is Started in the Circuit Court
Today.

The suit of Thomas E. Trackwell, administrator of the late Samantha J. Shoup against Mrs. Maggie Irvin, Chester C. Heck and Susie Brown, sent here on a change of venue from Shelby county, started in circuit court this morning. The suit is for the conversion of trust funds and for an accounting in which $16,000 is involved. The case, which is the most important tried here in several terms, is being heard by Judge Raymond Springer of Connersville.

The suit will practically open the books of the firm of Shoup and Heck, operators of the famous gold fish ponds near Waldron as far back as 1910. A great array of legal talent is engaged in the suit and it will be hard fought. The case is not expected to be completed until the first of next week. The plaintiff is represented by McDaniel and Ross of Shelbyville, and John A. Titsworth of this city, while the defendants are represented by Hord and Adams, Carter and Morrison of Shelbyville, and Kiplinger and Smith of this city.

The gold fish "farm" was operated by William Shoup, husband of the late Samantha Shoup and Charles Heck, first husband of Mrs. Maggie Irvin. At the death of Mr. Shoup, his widow and Mr. Heck continued to operate the business, which is said to have been very profitable. The complaint alleges that Mrs. Shoup, who was quite aged, entrusted the management of her interests to the defendants, and in 1910 turned over to them the sum of $9,292.99.

It is alleged that the business was conducted on a profitable basis and that later an additional sum was placed in the bank, amounting to $7,184. The plaintiff maintained that the defendants took advantage of the age and ill health of Mrs. Shoup and converted the funds of the firm for their own personal use.

Charles Heck, the junior member of the firm was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Following his death his widow, now Mrs. Irvin, and her son, Chester Heck, and Mrs. Shoup continued to operate the business. Mrs. Irvin was reared by the Shoups and was not a daughter. Susie Brown, who is named as a defendant, was the bookkeeper of the firm. In 1913 Mrs. Shoup became so infirm that a guardian was appointed and it is alleged that at this time there was only $500 to her credit in the bank.

Thomas Trackwell, the plaintiff to the suit, is the only living relative of Mrs. Shoup, he being her brother. It is alleged that the defendants have made no accounting to the administrator of the estate. It was stated that checks would be introduced in evidence to show that the defendants used the funds for their own use.

In the opening statement for the defense Ed K. Adams stated that the defense maintained that where there was a joint-conversion there could be no judgment for conversion against one party. Mr. Adams stated that it would be shown that Trackwell showed little consideration for his sister, the late Mrs. Shoup, before her death, but following her death his interest picked up greatly. He stated that after Mr. Shoup died the parties operating the Clarence Palmer, who was injured about two weeks ago in a fall through a skylight at the Windsor hotel, is in the Long Memorial hospital, Indianapolis, believed to be suffering with a broken back. At the time of the accident Palmer was not believed to be badly hurt, but he did not improve and the attending physician believes that the last dorsal vertebra was fractured in the fall.

Palmer is paralyzed from his hips down and while he is not in any immediate danger it is believed he will never walk again should he recover. In order to determine definitely whether the vertebra is fractured the hospital physicians are to make an X-ray examination.

TROOPERS FIGHT THE THIRD BATTLE

Clash With Villistas at Cieneguella,
Mexico, Killing Ten And
Capturing Two

OTHER FIGHT CONFIRMED

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 7.—Americans and Villistas have fought their third engagement since the punitive expedition crossed the border.

The engagement occurred Tuesday at Cieneguella. Ten Villistas were killed and two captured. Carranza troops co-operated with the Americans in the engagement, news of which reached the war department today. The same message confirmed reports of the fight at Aguas Calientes between American and Villistas last Sunday.

The official message said Colonel Brown and his men of the Tenth cavalry had been living for two weeks on beef and corn but that a mining company has now made available food and money.

The message said it was rumored that Villa was wounded.

The funeral services of Dr. H. H. Elliot will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the United Presbyterian church. The remains, however, will be at the church at one o'clock and the casket will be open for anyone who may care to come and view them.

Atwell Morgan and Sidney Morgan have filed suit on an account against Dora Gwinnup, demanding $150.

ART OF WAR IS PLAINLY SHOWN

With All Its Gruesome, 20th Century
Efficiency, Present Conflict is Depicted.

WAR FILMS ARE COMING HERE

Man Behind the Camera Absolutely
Ignored Element of Danger in Getting Pictures.

The art of war, in all its gruesome 20th Century efficiency, is vividly shown in the film, "With Von Hindenburg's Army at the Front," which is being exhibited next Tuesday at Princess theater under the auspices of the Daily Republican.

W. H. Durborough, representing the Newspaper Enterprise Association, was the man behind the camera, and with his assistant, Irving Rees, he absolutely ignored the element of personal danger in a successful struggle to picture the terrific campaign in East Prussia, Prussian Poland which finally gave Warsaw to Germany.

The perfectly adjusted machine by which Germany has achieved such marvelous military distinction is shown in minute detail.

There are pictures of the famous Hamburg derby as well as the devastated cities of East Prussia, the royal family at Potsdam just before the heart-rending views showing the hordes of homeless wanderers in Poland; the excited crowds cheer the progress of the fresh troops as they parade down under the Linden, and the wounded soldiers are shown being withdrawn from the trenches of the hospitals.

Phases of the actual attack on Novo Georgievsk, the Russian stronghold, whose fall opened the way to Warsaw, are deeply interesting.

Zeppelins hover at dusk over Warsaw, floating ominously in the air like great birds. Then there are pictures of the great Mazurian Lake, which was made the grave of 10,000 Russian soldiers, of Doberitz, biggest of all the German prison camps; the famous Death's Head hussars, a regiment of Uhlans charging, and numerous scenes showing the operations of the engineering department. Interesting individuals, of whom there are near views, include the kaiser, the kaiser-in-law, the princess royal, the crown prince and his brothers, Gen. von Hindenburg, Gen. von Beseler, the son of Count von Bernstorff, Ambassador Gerard, Jane Addams in Berlin, Prince of Reuss, Prince Max of Baden, Seven Hedin, and numerous American correspondents of wide reputation.

OPEN RUPTURE IS NOW FEARED

United States Absolutely Convinced
German Torpedo Sunk Channel
Packet Sussex

CABINET DISCUSSES CASE

Many do Not See Any Possible Way
For Germany to Declare Herself to Prevent Rupture

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 7.—The United States government is absolutely convinced a German torpedo struck the Channel packet Sussex. A statement from Berlin is now awaited as to Germany's intentions. In the light of this fact, the administration does not propose to wait long.

These facts were made known today as the president's cabinet gathered at the white house to consider the situation.

When President Wilson and his cabinet met to discuss for the fourth time since the wrecking of the Sussex the relation between this country and Germany, uncertainty, solemnity and anticipation mingled in the atmosphere about the white house. Little doubt remained that the government will soon announce its intended action. But the length to which the president may go was little discussed by officials.

Secretary Lansing had ready for presentation additional proof that the Sussex was torpedoed by a German submarine. The evidence was compiled by the French government and by American naval attaches. In addition the secretary had numerous dispatches that indicated Germany has embarked on a new submarine campaign apparently regardless of assurances given the United States government months ago.

The apparent seriousness of the international situation has been reflected the past few days by the absolute secrecy established both at the white house and state department. The lid on news has been clamped down tight.

As fast as the date comes into the state department, it is forwarded to President Wilson. During the past few days state department messengers have taken a score of confidential papers to the white house. Officials have said that this government out of diplomatic courtesy will take no action until word has come from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin regarding the German position. This should not require much longer. At any rate this government will not allow the matter to drag indefinitely.

It has been indicated so strongly in recent days that the government is preparing to break off relations in the event. Proof against Germany is conclusive that many officials do not see the possibility of Berlin declaring herself in a way that will avoid this rupture.

Disavowal, reparation and real punishment of the submarine commander are the strongest actions expected by even the most sanguine administration men. Others are hopeful a settlement of the whole submarine issue may be brought about as the price paid by Germany for maintenance of diplomatic relations. These believe such a settlement conceding all the United States has contended for and giving assurances that could not be broken would save the present critical situation.

In any event, it was once more made clear today if a break is to be avoided by Germany's act, this act must come voluntarily and soon.

GARAGE BEING IMPROVED

Cement Building Will Replace Frame

Extensive improvements have been started on the Bussard garage, corner of Second and Perkins streets. The rear end of the building, which was frame, has been razed and will be replaced with a concrete structure. When it is completed the repair department of the garage will be moved into it and that part of the building which is used for the shop will be torn down and a cement building erected, joining up with the other new section. The front part of the building is brick. When completed the garage will be a half block long.

ECKSTROM GOES BEFORE GRAND JURY

Man Accused of Appropriating
Funds of Co., by Which he
Was Employed Still in Jail

NOW OUT OF SQUIRE'S COURT.

Ernest Eckstrom, the piano salesman held in jail in default of $300 bond on a charge of grand larceny, was before the grand jury this morning. Eckstrom is alleged to have appropriated the sum of $117.75 from the funds of the Baldwin piano company. The affidavit against him was filed before Squire Kratzer, but as his court has not final jurisdiction over the case should he plead guilty or be found guilty, the grand jury investigated and it may land in the circuit court.

Eckstrom was before the grand jury for about an hour. He is said to have admitted to the squire that he took the money, but he intended paying it back. The piano company did not desire to prosecute and would rather settle the case by having Eckstrom pay the money. So far he has been unable to raise the necessary amount.

WIDOW OF FORMER CONGRESSMAN DIES

Mrs. Anna Sexton Expires at Age
of Eighty Years After a Pro-

LIVED HERE MOST OF LIFE

Mrs. Anna Sexton, 80 years old, widow of the late Leonidas Sexton, one time lieutenant governor of Indiana and member of congress from this district, died Thursday afternoon at five o'clock at her home in North Morgan street. Death was due to senility. She had been in ill health for a long time and death was expected.

Mrs. Sexton was a native of Kentucky, being born in Paducah, October 9, 1836. She came here with her parents at an early age and had been a resident here ever since. Mrs. Sexton was the mother of the late Gates Sexton, who was a well known attorney of Rushville. She is survived by one grandson, William Sexton.

The funeral services will be conducted Saturday morning at ten o'clock at the late residence and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

DEFEATS TAKEN; NO BITTERNESS

Harmony is Watchword of Republican State Convention And
Olive Branch is Extended

PROGRESSIVES FARE WELL

Convention Liberal in Reception of
Watson And New, Giving
Watson Real Ovation

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7.—The exodus of Republican state convention to all parts of the state began last night when the convention closed and continued throughout the day. The convention was pronounced the most enthusiastic and harmonious one ever held by the Republicans of Indiana.

Harmony was the watchword. The olive branch was extended far out to the former Progressives. It was the kind of harmony that has not been practiced by the Republicans of the state since way back in 1906.

Although there was a large field of candidates and only a small portion could win, defeat in yesterday's convention was not taken bitterly by anyone. There was little of the spectacular and no element of the unexpected, except that which would result from a nomination where there were two or more candidates. The applause frequently was deafening at the conclusion of each contest.

The popularity of the heads of the ticket was thoroughly attested when James P. Goodrich, James E. Watson and Harry S. New were nominated by acclamation. As evidence of the fine spirit that prevailed, Republicans pointed New and Watson, seated side by side on the stage and alluded to by Horace Stillwell of Anderson, former Progressive leader in the state, who was the permanent chairman, with the following quip: "We will let the Gold Dust twins complete their work and clean up the state."

The election of Ed C. Toner, editor of the Anderson Herald and former Progressive state chairman, as fourth delegate-at-large to the national convention was also conceded to be a fine stroke on the part of the convention to indicate that there were no hard feelings against those who left the party in 1912. Events broke right when Winfield T. Durbin of Anderson, who expected to contest with Toner for the place, withdrew just before the convention opened.

Although Frank F. Heighway of Lake county was picked to win the state superintendency nomination, Horace Ellis of Vincennes, who was the candidate in 1914, surprised the supporters of Heighway by winning on the second ballot.

John B. Cockrum of Indianapolis a close friend of New, to place New and Watson in nomination for United States senator and to move their nominations be made by acclamation. His motion helped to remove whatever feeling had existed. The convention was liberal in its reception of New and Watson. It gave Watson a real ovation. Watson expressed his pride at being placed on the ticket with New and Goodrich.

The race for treasurer contained the only sentimental feature of the day. Uz McMurtrie of Marion, who was regarded as a sure winner, "came through" successfully, but after a close rub, on the second ballot. His friends had the best organization in the convention. "Buzz for Uz," was a good rallying cry for McMurtrie. When his name was presented his friends, stationed in the balconies flooded the floor below with small bits of colored paper business submitted monthly reports to Mrs. Shoup and that she was kept informed at all times regarding the business of the company.

The defense maintains that Mrs.

Shoup was conversant with the facts of the business, and that the defendants did nothing without first consulting her. The defense will introduce evidence to explain the falling off of the funds. It will be shown, Mr. Adams stated, that a calamity hit the business when the water supply to the gold fish ponds was cut off and that considerable of this money was used in fighting the case through the Shelbyville circuit court.

The water supply to the gold fish ponds was obtained from springs on an adjoining farm. When this farm

CHAPLIN AS GOOD A COIN SAVER AS HE IS AT FILM COMEDY STUFF

Some of His Friends Say That he Has the Oldest Money in California Because he Positively Refuses to Learn to Write a Check.

"This guy is good," remarked Chaplin to the boss of the Niles film ranch. "He's handed me a bunch of laughs. I'll bet he can make other people laugh."

But Jamieson was pulled from his piano and given small roles in the Chaplin comedies. He made an instant hit, and he is doing well at present.

At Niles they say that Chaplin's thrift in money matters is excelled by none, and equaled only by that well-known Scotch coin preserver, Harry Lauder.

"Chaplin has got some of the oldest money in California," said one of his colleagues at Niles. "He never had a bank account till he joined the Essanay, and in a few years he'll be selling at a premium the coin he received as his first week's salary. He didn't know how to make out a bank account till a few months ago, and he didn't know how to draw a check. One of the boys offered to show him how to make out a check. Chaplin watched him a few minutes and then shut his eyes tight, and turned away."

"I don't want to learn. I don't want to learn."

"But he is learning how to write a check," said another movie actor. "I saw him write a check once."

"You did?" yelled a chorus of doubting actors and actresses.

"I did. It was on April 21, or was it March 21? Well, anyhow, it was on the twenty-first of some month. I remember because Chaplin wrote the date 21th!"

Tabboing "Tabby."

Most of the film actors at Niles live in cottages. Chaplin occupied a cottage with one of the actors, and at first bade fair to become a popular member of the colony, but that was before he brought his "Tabby" to Niles. One day he returned from San Francisco in great glee carrying under his arm a battered violin case. The same night he began to make night life in Niles hideous with the mournful strains which he tortured out of an ancient and disreputable violin. The film folk promptly likened Chaplin's playing to the wailing of an old tabby-cat on a back fence at midnight, mourning over a misspent life. The musically inclined actors aver that Chaplin has assassinated more tunes on his violin than a score of German street bands. There was some talk of dipping the film star and his "Tabby" into the bay, but nothing came of it. The plotters evidently remembered that Tabbies have nine lives. The actors recovered their sense of humor, and when the wailing, discordant notes of Chaplin's fiddle broke the rustic evening stillness, they joined in a hughubrious chorus, each voice a semi-tone out of tune.

Chaplin's habits are mostly those of a bat. Those who know him best say he would never go to bed if he could have his own way about it. He is by nature "a sun dodger," according to his companies. He has never been known to yawn after sunset, but none of the other characteristics of a night hawk are his. He does not drink. In fact, his dissipation is confined to turning day into night and snoring. But sleep or no sleep, Charlie Chaplin has never been known to show the lack of slumber the next day. When the Australian Boys' Club which has been visiting the Exposition and the Pacific coast and Canada came to Niles, Chaplin presented himself unannounced. He was immediately recognized by one of the lads who had seen him in pictures in the Antipodes.

"There's Charlie."

"There is Charlie Chaplin!" shouted the boy, and Chaplin found himself surrounded by the youngsters. The comedian went through all his favorite poses, relieved the bandmaster of his baton, and led the band, going through his whole repertoire of antics. It was an awful concert, for the boys could not play their instruments and laugh at Chaplin at the same time. The boys gave him three Kangaroo cheers when the concert was finished, and Chaplin returned the compliment by presenting each of the lads with his autographed photograph.

The Hotel Oakland was made the scene of one of Chaplin's comedies. Out of a side entrance staggered Chaplin one sunny morning in a terribly disheveled condition, chased by another actor. Evidently, there had been an annihilating fight in the preceding scene. Both men were supposed to be filled to the tonsils with some compound of run. They ran and tumbled and rolled around a corner, out of the camera's range, and into its range stepped other actors and actresses, supposed to be in the same party, and when they had finished their turn, the camera man stopped turning the crank, waiting for Chaplin and his companion to return. The company and the camera man waited in vain. Finally one of the actors noticed a number of people running from all directions toward Fourteenth street where Chaplin and his partner had disappeared. He walked toward the corner of Fourteenth street just in time to see a patrol wagon dash up to a large crowd of people. A minute or so later three or four fat policemen struggled from the center of the jam toward the patrol wagon dragging Chaplin and his companion. The pair had tumbled into the arms of a conscientious officer who thought Chaplin and his friends were intoxicated. Explanations availed nothing. "Tell it to the judge."

"You do your explaining to the judge," was the policeman's only reply, and it took the combined efforts of the whole movie company to release Chaplin and his fellow actor.

Chaplin's first appearance in Oakland caused nearly a riot. With several movie actors, he was about to enter a restaurant when he was recognized, and the cry of "Here's Charlie Chaplin!" summoned every rubber neck in the vicinity. Chaplin eschewed the restaurant, and the crowd followed. Chaplin did not want to disappoint his admirers, so he took a ketchup bottle and emptied it into the pocket of a waiter. Somebody grabbed the waiter's strong right arm just before the bottle descended on Charlie's head. The restaurant was in an uproar. When the table was laid and the order served, Chaplin disposed of his frugal meal just as he sometimes does in the film comedies. It was not refined fun, but the crowd laughed because it had seen a living demonstration of the comedy king.

Mention has been made of the fact that Chaplin talks to himself when he is alone. As a matter of fact, he talks to himself whether alone or in a crowd when he is not talking to someone else. The moment he ceases talking with anyone else, Charlie takes up the conversation with Mr. Chaplin.

was sold, the new owner, it is alleged, destroyed the tiling and water pipes, making it almost impossible for the gold fish business to continue. The litigation involved over this is still remembered in Shelby county as being one of the hardest fought suits ever tried there and was eventually settled when Mrs. Irvin, then Mrs. Heck, bought the land containing the springs for $9000. The plaintiff will object to this testimony being offered, but Judge Springer intimated that it was permissible in order to show the expenditures.

WHEAT ESTIMATE PROVES TOO HIGH

Reduction of 24 Per Cent is Indicated Over Forecast of April 1 of Last Year

SMALL ACREAGE ONE CAUSE

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 7.—A reduction of 24 per cent in the winter wheat crop as compared with the estimate of April 1, 1915 is indicated in the department of agriculture report today.

The small production forecast—497,000,000 bushels—is due partly, the department said, to a reduction of 11 per cent in acreage and to a low condition of growth, 78.3 per cent of normal, lower than any year on April 1 since 1904 and ten per cent lower than the ten-year average on April 1.

Congressman Cline "Passes the Buck" and Kendallville Will Hold Informal Primary.

TWENTY-ONE CANDIDATES

All Territory Covered by Office Will be Eligible—Will Recommend the Winner.

(By United Press.)
Kendallville, Ind., April 7.—Puzzled congressmen who would side-step the job of picking a postmaster from dozens of applicants are referred to Cyrus Cline, representing the 12th Indiana district who has "passed the buck" to the people. Kendallville will on April 14 hold an informal and unofficial primary all its own to choose the Democrat whom Cline will recommend to President Wilson as the next postmaster.

For fear some Republican might accept the opportunity to try for the postmastership, the announcement was made that only democrats might be candidates. This announcement was effective for it was realized that Cline did not intend to recommend a republican for the renumeration office.

Twenty-one democrats have announced their candidacy for the job, despite the fact that each candidate must bear his share of the expense of the primary.

All territory covered by the Kendallville postoffice will take part in the primary one week from today.

MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK.

And the Lesson the Small Investor Needs to Learn.

The advice of one of the large banks of the country is that every one should invest his surplus, whether large or small, in dividend securities of the best class, whether railroad, real estate or farm mortgages or public utilities, for "To keep money idle is a costly operation."

Let every reader of this article remember that with as little as $5 or $10 he can make first payment on the purchase of a first class $100 bond. Let every reader who has a few hundred dollars to spare put it in a good $500 or $1,000 bond on the partial payment plan, and let it earn something. Five hundred dollars invested in a 6 per cent bond (with the income deposited in a savings bank at 4 per cent) will double itself in twelve years—that is, the $500 will have become $1,000 in that time. This $1,000 at 6 per cent will earn $60 a year or over $1 a week for its possessor. Even at 5 per cent it will double in fifteen years and at 4 per cent in eighteen years.

The lesson the small investor wants to learn is that his money is just as good as that of the larger investor. The former has greater need of being careful because he has less to spare. Learn to be a careful investor. The first thing the careful buyer does if he wants to buy a horse, a cow, a house or a farm, a bond or a share of stock is to make a careful investigation. Schoolboys may swap the jackknives they hold in their closed hands, but grownup men ought to know better. The humblest investor can buy with as great safety as the proudest, for both can deal with the same bankers or brokers in these days when small lots are popular with firms of established character.—Leslie's Weekly.

Surgeons Made a Stomach For Arnold Smaller Than a Tennis Ball.

Baltimore.—Surgeons connected with the University hospital are much interested in an operation performed several days ago, when a large portion of the stomach of Harold B. Arnold was removed and a new digestive organ formed from the unaffected tissues, slightly smaller than the ordinary tennis ball, was put in its place.

His condition is now greatly improved, and he receives predigested food through a glass tube.

In the event of the complete recovery of Arnold he will have to receive nourishment at least a dozen times a day because of the minuteness of his stomach. It is so small now that it will only contain the amount of liquid held by an ordinary teacup.

Men Knit Shawls In Jail.

Evansville, Ind.—Hand knitted woolen shawls, the "kind that grandmother wore," are being made by men prisoners in the county jail here. Two of the shawls have been completed and are valued at $10 each. Four of the prisoners are working on the shawls, and they have become experts. Exactly 1,405 knots are made in each shawl.

Another Vera Cruz?

Press reports of rumors that the American expedition may be withdrawn from Mexico and the practical certainty that such is the wish of the Carranza government causes immediate speculation as to whether the present episode will be another era Cruz.

The way Huerta made this government take back everything it said when the fleet was sent to Mexican waters is still fresh in the minds of the American people. President Wilson sent word to Huerta to salute the American flag. Huerta replied that he would salute the flag if the United States would return the salute. Such a thing was impossible because it would have been recognition of the Huerta regime, which this government had refused.

The United States ordered the punitive expedition into Mexico for the avowed purpose of capturing Villa dead or alive for the atrocities he had committed on Americans. To withdraw without accomplishing its purpose would be an admission of failure, of inability to catch a single bandit. Such was the deplorable termination of the Vera Cruz incident. But in this case it would be even more to be regretted.

Every day events made it more and more certain that in the end the policy of "watchful waiting" applied to Mexico will be a failure. Carranza, although protesting to be in sympathy and to be actively co-operating with the American troops, has revealed that his protestations are insincere. His refusal to allow the use of Mexican railroads for the shipments of supplies are sufficient cause for the charge that he is not playing fair with this government. This latest development, the statement of General Gavira reflecting the belief of the Constitutionalists, to the effect that the United States should give up the Villa chase, makes it very plain where Carranza stands.

Still "Saving" Missouri.

The Democratic national convention was sent to St. Louis because Champ Clark told the committee it was necessary to do so if Missouri was to be "saved" to the Democratic party.

About a month ago ex-Governor David R. Francis was appointed Ambassador to Russia because it was felt necessary to give Missouri some added and special favor of federal patronage if the State was to be "saved" for Democracy.

Now the Missourians are demanding that Gov. Major be nominated for Vice President in order to "save" the State.

It surely does take a heap of "salvation" for Missouri Democrats these days. But the fact remains that Missouri cannot be "saved." The Democracy down there is beyond salvation. As in 1904 and 1908, Missouri will from present indication this year give her electoral vote to a Republican President publican State administration and in addition she will elect a Republican United States Senator, together with such other pickings, Congressmen and the like, as go with an overwhelming political victory.

Harmony was the watchword at the Republican state convention yesterday, indicating that the candidates will go down the road together, fighting for Republican success. The spectacle of Quincy Myers and Warren T. McCray standing on the stage and joining in the nomination of James P. Goodrich, their opponent in the primary, aroused the convention to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. The appearance of James E. Watson and Harry S. New was also the signal for loud applause, indicating the general satisfaction of the delegates and peaceful ending to one of the most hotly contested political races ever waged in Indiana.

The president says the United States is founded on its sense of humanity. O. K., but it will require some mighty big guns to maintain the foundation.

The advent of tramps, mosquitoes and other pestiferous insects is a sure indication of the approach of spring.

Then, too, preparedness against the vitriolic tongue of the gossip would be a welcome deliverance to many a lacerated soul.

In this great land of ours all men are equal, but many are not willing to admit it.

Frances Wright, philanthropist, social reformer and the first woman who advocated equal suffrage for both sexes was born in Dundee, Scotland, 1797. When nine years of age, she was left an orphan. But a small fortune fell to her lot, and she was given an excellent education by her guardian, the noted Jeremy Bentham. In her frequent travels on the continent, she met many famous characters, including Gen. Lafayette and noted local reformers of Hungary and Poland. Upon coming to the United States she was greatly impressed by the genuineness of Democracy that everywhere existed. Her "Views on Society and Manners in America" appeared in 1822, and she showered compliments upon the spirit of the new world. Coming west, she was attracted by the New Harmony movement settled there, and enlisted in the work.

Celebrating the hundredth anniversary of its founding, the American Bible society has announced that during its existence it has distributed a total of 109,926,214 volumes of Scripture in this and many foreign lands. The society was organized for the purpose of keeping the price of a Bible within reach of the poor to secure as wide distribution as possible. Similar societies have been organized in many of the nations of Europe.

Portions of the Scriptures have been printed in about 500 different dialects and languages. The entire Bible has been printed in a hundred different translations. It has been sent to every nook and corner of the world, and the work is growing each year.

A people which has not the Bible in its own language cannot have Sunday schools for Bible study. On the other hand, any community which reads the Bible is sure to have a Bible Sunday school. Every separate version of the Scriptures becomes thus a door of opportunity to the Sunday school enterprise, for it is a breach in the walls of Babel.

Thousands of Sunday schools in the United States, in Asia, in Africa and in the islands of the great, silent ocean owe their existence and their prosperity to the fact that the Bible has been translated into their native language.

The Bible societies of the world are counted by thousands, but as far as can be learned the most of these societies, as well as the home and foreign missionary societies of all Christendom, obtain the Scriptures, which are the essential implement of their work, from less than thirty Bible societies in Europe and America which print the Scriptures.

In 1914 the whole number of volumes issued by those societies which print was probably over 28,000,000. Of this number it is estimated that fully 27,000,000 were put into circulation.

Over five-sixths of this number—that is to say, 19,320,939 volumes—are issued by three English speaking societies—the British and Foreign Bible society (10,162,000), the American Bible society (6,396,323) and the Scottish National Bible society (2,762,616). The issues of these three societies include nearly the whole of the Scriptures used by the missions and Sunday schools in Asia, Africa and the islands of the Pacific ocean besides a great part of those distributed by the Sunday school unions in Christian lands.

The Bible societies often co-operate in dividing the expense of new translations of the Bible. They supply each other at cost with Scriptures in foreign languages when required.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

A BIT OF HISTORY

The Attempt to Assassinate President Andrew Jackson.

QUEER MANIA OF A MADMAN.

Richard Lawrence, Who Sought to Kill "Old Hickory," and Only Failed Because His Pistols Missed Fire, Thought He About Owned the World.

Since the establishing of the United States, three successful attempts have been made to assassinate our presidents, and another one was a failure only through the weapon not discharging, when it was drawn upon President Andrew Jackson on Jan. 30, 1835. The news of this attempt spread like wildfire throughout the country, and consternation filled the public mind at the thought that the tragic mode of dealing with the crowned heads of kingdoms and empires had at last been tried upon the person of the popularly elected ruler of a free republic.

At the time of the attempted assassination of President Jackson, he was at the capitol, in attendance on the funeral of Hon. Warren R. Davis of South Carolina. The assassin was Richard Lawrence, a painter, residing in Washington. This individual was seen to enter the hall of the house of representatives during the delivery of the funeral sermon, but before its close, however, he had taken his stand on the eastern portico, near one of the columns.

The president, with the secretary of the treasury, on retiring from the rotunda to reach his carriage at the steps of the portico advanced toward the spot where Lawrence stood. The painter had his pistols concealed under his coat. When the president approached within two yards and a half of him Lawrence extended his arm and leveled the pistol at the president's breast.

The percussion cap exploded with a noise so great that several witnesses supposed that the pistol had been discharged. On that instant the assassin dropped it from his right hand and, taking another ready cocked from his left, presented and snapped it at the president, who at the moment raised his cane and made for the assailant with lionlike energy and would have executed summary vengeance, but Secretary Woodbury and Lieutenant Godney at the same instant laid hold of the man, who gave way through the crowd and was at last knocked down, the president pressing after him until he saw he was secured. As soon as the act was known to the crowd they wished to kill the assassin on the spot.

Lawrence was at once conveyed to jail. When asked why he attempted to kill the president the assassin said because Jackson had killed his father. This proved to be a hallucination on his part. The total absence of any personal motive on the part of the prisoner suggested the idea that he must be insane.

Lawrence was a handsome young man of thirty-five years, small in stature, pale of complexion, with black hair and dark eyes. So great was the excitement produced by the affair that some of the most eminent political opponents of the president, including such men as Clay, Calhoun, Poindexter, White and others, were in the frenzy of the moment suspected of having conspired in a plot to get rid of the president.

On the day of the trial Lawrence at first conducted himself in court with much ease, taking his seat very quietly beside his counsel and conversing smilingly with them. But when the first witness was called the prisoner sprang to his feet and demanded to know by what right they had brought him there, as he claimed the crown of Great Britain and also that of the United States. He made these same assertions frequently during his trial.

When Lawrence's counsel asked that he be withdrawn from the court to save further of his ridiculous outbursts the prisoner rose and addressed the judge wildly: "What I have done to Jackson was on account of the money he owes me. I consider all in this court as under me. The United States bank has owed me money since 1802, and I want my money. You are under me, gentlemen. It is for me, gentlemen, to pass upon you and not you upon me."

It was not very difficult for the counsel to prove that Lawrence was insane. Many witnesses were called to testify as to his peculiarities, covering a number of years. Several physicians were introduced into the case, and they were unanimous in declaring that Lawrence's state of mind was that of morbid delusion.

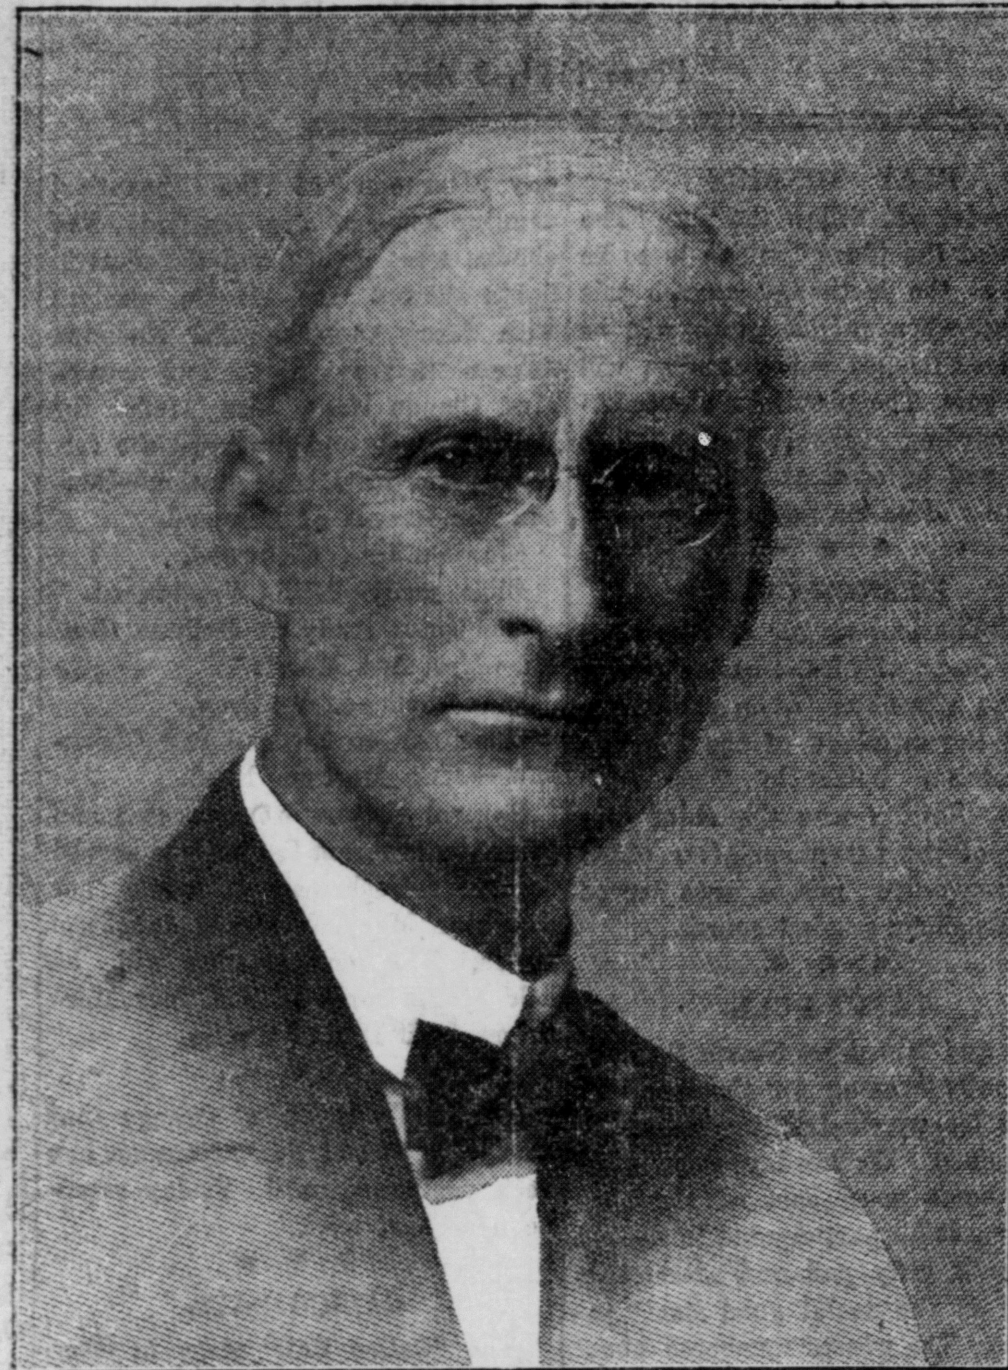

In accordance with the evidence thus given, the jury was out only five minutes, returning at once with a verdict of not guilty. Lawrence was sent to a lunatic asylum, where he remained an inmate close to forty years.—Philadelphia Press.

Stings of Animals Are Similar.

In the examination of the poisonous machinery of insects and reptiles it is apparent that the destructive principle is the same in all and that the fang in all possesses a hollow through which the poison flows into the wound the moment the incision is made. The sting of the scorpion is precisely like the fang of the rattlesnake and performs its deadly work on the same mechanical principles.

If our children are not trained in the principles of thrift our nation as a whole will suffer for it later on.—Theodore Roosevelt.

boosting him. A band from Marion perched high above the crowd added to the noise and excitement.

McMurtrie won when he received the bulk of the vote in the Ninth, Tenth and Twelfth Districts, which swung to him after the first ballot.

The former Progressives fared well on the ticket. In addition to Toner for delegate at large, Thomas N. Davidson of Greensburg, and D. N. Foster, of Fort Wayne, who were chosen as contingent electors at large, are former Progressives.

Edgar D. Bush, the successful candidate for Lieutenant Governor, was an active Progressive in 1912. He received many votes on that account from Republicans who wanted to place a Progressive on the ticket.

Henry A. Roberts of Carmel, nominee for state statistician, was a Progressive in 1912. The former Progressives were given as much voice in the proceedings as they asked.

The following ticket was nominated, the hardest fights being waged for treasurer of state and superintendent of public instruction.

For Governor, James P. Goodrich of Winchester.

For United States senator, James E. Watson of Rushville, short term; Harry S. New of Indianapolis, long term.

For Lieutenant Governor, Edgar D. Bush of Salem.

For Secretary of State, Ed Jackson of Indianapolis.

For Auditor of State, Otto L. Klaus of Evansville.

For Treasurer of State, Uz McMurtrie of Marion.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY.

London, April 7.—An officer serving in Mesopotamia wrote home today as follows: "The Garden of Eden is not many hundred yards from my camp. On the river front grows a tree which has long, yellow beans and feathery leaves. It is the only one of its kind here, and 'T. Atkins' has named it 'The Forbidden Tree.' It is vicinity small Arab boys hawk cheap cigarettes, biscuits and 'finned' milk and the locality is known as 'Temptation Square.'"

WITH MR. AND MRS. BROWN

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Brown of near Milroy were host and hostess to the members of the Country Club which has been enjoying such pleasant meetings during the winter months and whose meetings promise to continue with their usual delight. Cards, music furnished by Mrs. Harvey Brown and Mrs. Wilbur Brown at the piano, and other games lent jollity to the evening, at the close of which a tempting luncheon was served to the guests who numbered twenty-six.

PLAY TONIGHT

A social will follow the play "The Honor of the Class," which is to be given at the Methodist church this evening, when refreshments will be served and home made candies will be on sale. The play is a clever little boarding school sketch. The doors will be open at 7:30 and admission will be ten cents.

EMANON CLUB

Daffodils lent an air of fragrance to the home of Mrs. Charles Greiser this afternoon when she entertained the members of the Emanon Club at her home in West Fifth street. Sewing was the chief diversion of the afternoon after which the twenty-five guests were served with a delicious salad course.

TAFFY PULL

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Norris furnished a jolly evening for the members of the Happy-Go-Lucky when they entertained Wednesday evening at their home south-east of the city. The guests all participated in the old fashioned taffy pull and afterwards joined in the social good time together. The guests numbered about fifteen and the trip was made in automobiles.

BOX SOCIAL

The box social given by the Rebekahs last evening in the Odd Fellow hall proved to be a great success because of the informality and jollity of the affair. A social hour was spent in which the guests indulged in a number of old-fashioned games. The boxes which contained the lunches that the ladies had fixed were then distributed to the gentleman by numbers. Each box was accompanied by a hat which the gentleman, was asked to trim for his partner. Claude C. Owen was the winner for trimming his hat the best while E. C. McMahan proved the champion for trimming his hat the quickest. After a grand march the boxes were opened and the lunches enjoyed.

JUANITA CLUB

A number of new members were taken in the Juanita club when the members met with Mrs. Walter Smith, who was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Thomas Smith. The ladies spent a delightful afternoon together in chatting over their fancy work and welcoming the new members. The hostesses served a palatable luncheon at the close of the affair, which was marked with its dainty appointments. Twenty-three guests participated in the merry afternoon including the new members who were Mrs. Nannie Goodin, Mrs. Mary Lock, Miss Marie Newkirk, Mrs. George Murphy, Mrs. Nora Wright, Mrs. Josie Manleaf, Mrs. Mary Eckell, Mrs. Nellie Sweet, and Mrs. Minnie Moore.

BEN DAVIS MISSIONARY

The Ben Davis Creek Missionary Society held their meeting Wednesday

day afternoon at the beautiful country home of Mrs. Ida Gray. The shades were drawn and the electric lights showed the double parlors with ferns and beautiful blooming flowers in very nook and corner. Mrs. Claude Hunt was leader for the afternoon and arranged the following program. Recitation—Geneva Vandament of Kennard.

Story—Mrs. Kirkwood. Bible study—Millie Vandament. Character study of Melinda Rankin—Mrs. Inez Morris.

Piano solo—Mary Gray. Questions on 1st and 2nd Corinthians—Mrs. Mertella Nash.

Several visitors were present and after the program the hostess served dainty refreshments, while her daughter, Mary, furnished delightful music. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Inez Morris on April 18th at 2 p. m.

CALICO BALL

The "Calico Ball" given in Glenwood last evening was a very successful affair and proved to be as much fun as the name implies. A Connersville orchestra played for the dances and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winship Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Wamsley and daughter, Kathryn, Mrs. James Alexander, and Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander of this city. A mock trial was conducted during the evening which proved to be very humorous as different ones of the guests were tried for several petty offenses.

WITH MRS. REYNOLDS

About fifteen members of the Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian church of Glenwood enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Arthur Reynolds of Glenwood yesterday afternoon and the excellent program that was given during the meeting by the members of the society. The numbers on the program, which was in charge of Mrs. Newman were: trio by Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Murphy and Miss Ochiltree; a paper of "New Opportunities in China" by Mrs. McCrory; paper on "Present Day Needs in China" by Miss Lou Ochiltree; and a talk on "China and Suffering," by Mrs. John T. Aiken, of this city. A business meeting followed during which it was decided to give a penny supper the latter part of next week. A very delicious luncheon was served with an social eriod by the hostess who was graciously assisted by Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Martin.

C. W. B. M. FLATROCK

The meeting of the Missionary society at the Little Flatrock church yesterday was featured with an interesting program which was led by Miss Blanche Armsrong. Jonquils and potted flowers were the decorations used to make the rooms especially attractive for the affair. The numbers, were:

Piano solo—Miss Goulda Weir. Invocation—Mrs. Mauzy Bebout. Bible reading—Mrs. William George.

Three recitations by Katherine Newby, Ruth Geise, and Mariamme Holman.

Paper on "India"—Mrs. Lowell Norris.

Bible study—Mrs. Paul Daubenspeck.

Mission study—Mrs. Benjamin Reeve.

Circle of prayer, led by Mrs. John Cassidy, ending with Lords Prayer in concert.

Musical monologue—Miss Beulah Murphy, with Miss Ruby Stewart at piano.

Story—"Aunt Emmeline's Mitebox"—Mrs. Frank George.

Piano solo—Miss Amery Barber.

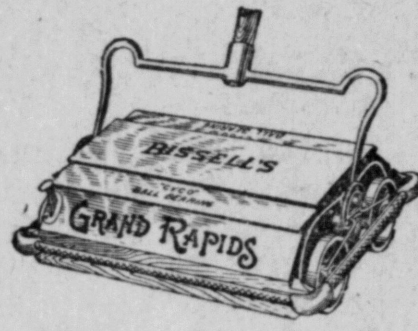

Questions and answers on India. Roll call and business meeting presided over by president, Mrs. Heaton. During this business session, arrangements were made for the Easter meetings to be held during the week of prayer preceding Easter. On Tuesday, April 18th, the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Logan and on Thursday, April 20th at the home of Mrs. O. J. Myers. Arrangements, too, were made for organizing a mission band with 26 children as members. Mrs. John Cassidy was elected superintendent of this band and Mrs. Charles Carney assistant superintendent. Officers for this new organization will be elected at the May meeting. The program was interspersed with several hymns sung by the members and closed with the auxiliary benediction.

Amusements

The Mystic will show a thrilling mystery drama "The Man on Watch" for the first picture tonight. The second is a railway drama "A Matter of Seconds." It is another of the series of "The Hazards of Helen in which Helen Holmes is featured. The last is a one reel feature "Hearst and Selig Pictorial Review." Tomorrow matinee and night the two act drama "A Mystery of the Mountains" will be shown.

"The Fighting Hope," is the picturization of which the distinguished dramatic star, Laura Hope Crews is featured is the attraction at the Princess tonight. "The Fighting Hope" was originally produced by David Belasco, creating success of extraordinary proportions at the Belasco theatre. The picture may be described as a bank robbery drama under modern conditions. The treasurer of a trust company robs the bank by certifying a cheque for $700,000 when he knows the depositor in question has not that much money in the institution. He does this for a bonus of $100,000 which he uses to support a woman of ill repute who continually makes demands upon him. His wife, in spite of her courageous determination to believe in her husband's innocence, falls in love with the president of the bank, bringing about one of the most tense situations in modern drama.

The Gem will show a three act drama "The She Devil" for the first picture tonight. Gladys Brockwell, Constance Talmadge and George Beranger are featured. It is said to be a dramatic production, showing many sensational scenes. In addition to this feature a one act comedy will be shown. Tomorrow, matinee and night the two reel comedy "An Innocent Crook," will be shown.

GETTING READY FOR BIG PARADE

Atlantic City Dusting Off Board
Walk in Preparation For
Easter Sunday Show

ADVANCE CROWD ON HANDS

Promenaders Already Have an Inkling of What Can be Expected Later on

(By United Press.)

Atlantic City, N. J., April 7.—Atlantic City is getting ready for the Big Show Easter Sunday. It is dusting off the miles and miles of World famous Broadwalk, trmmiong up the sandy white beach and plumbing itself generally for the gorgeous Easter Sunday rush of frilled and furbelowed society to the Peacock Parade.

Spring gowns feature the noon parades on the broadwalk. The vanguard of the Easter crowd arrived with the first wa-m days, and a number of prominent people who have been in the South arec oming to the big hotels to remain until after Easter or later.

Ex-United States Senator Murray Crane and Mrs. Crane have arrived at the Marlborough-Bleheim. United States Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Charles Sumner Moore. Charles F. Murphy has been here and Mrs. G. S. Boissevain is here accompanied by Mrs. Sharswood. Bishop Greer and Mrs. Greer were at the Dennis. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Howe and Miss Laura Wiley Howe also are here.

Many persons prominent socially and in the business world came to the Traymore from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Montreal, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and other cities. From New York came Theodore F. Shonts. The larger business interests of Chicago were represented by Samuel Insull, who was accompanied by Mrs. Insull and Samuel Insull, Jr.; and by Edward Vinton Price and others. Colonel Peers Peers Davidson, son of the late Sir Charles Davidson, of Montreal, was here in preparation for a plungs into the European war at the head of his Scottish Highlanders of Canada. Robert J. Wynne, who was Postmaster General during the first Roosevelt administration, spent several days at the Traymore.

The last few days, especially Sunday, saw thousands of persons on the Broadwalk. Never before has so much evidence been obtained indicative that the resort is enjoying an unprecedented boom. All the hotels and boarding houses already have big crowds.

All this is preparatory to the real grand opening Easter Sunday. On that day personages representing billions of good United States currency, bedecked in the latest creations in style will roll or stroll on the Broadwalk, displaying their charms, costumes and ornaments.

The promenaders here now already give an inkling of what can be expected Easter Sunday. Last Sunday one young damsel, clinging to the arm of a Beau Brummel, nonchalantly tripped along displaying a pretty foot encased in black and white striped stockings and white boots.

Another young women was a glaring symphony in checks. Around the skirt and on the coat of the costume she wore, were wide bands of black and green squares, alternating with white. The chief decoration of her headdress was large squares of red and green straw, woven into the texture of a brown straw hat.

The hats the woman-folk are wearing seem to attract considerable attention. Many of the new "sport" hats are in vogue. They are made of pink, blue, green and other colored straws and their sole decoration is the band, to all appearance just like a man's.

shillings ($2.88) per month per vanload. The charge now is $3.60.

Some families are selling their furniture outright. They do so at a sacrifice, but the market is not quite in so depressed a state as might be expected. Recent restrictions on the importation of material for furniture making has led to the expectations that the demand for this class of merchandise will soon exceed the supply and second-hand dealers are consequently paying fairly liberal prices.

Owners of antiques really are doing exceptionally well, owing to orders from neutral countries, which are rolling in war profits, in expectation of just such a situation as the present one.

In London the big boarding-house centers, like Bloomsbury and South Kensington, are gathering in enormous numbers of the refugees. The landladies unquestionably will do well, but their profits will be due rather to the heavy volume of their business than to large individual profits. The families left behind when the married men go to the front will have enough to live on meagerly, but not more. Lawyers never were so busy as now, drawing wills for the departing soldiers.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

MOVING GOING ON IN ENGLAND

End of Quarter Finds Many Homes Broken up as Men Prepare to Leave For Front.

SWAMPS FURNITURE HAULERS

Market For Second-Hand Goods Remains Good—Lawyers Kept Busy Drawing Wills.

BY CHAS P. STEWART.

London, April 7.—More moving is being done in England today than ever before in the country's history. The movers are the families of married men who expect to leave shortly for one of the war fronts. This is the end of the "quarter" and as few middle class Englishmen can keep up their homes in their absence, they are breaking them up.

Furniture movers are hopelessly swamped. Not only has the unprecedented amount of business overwhelmed them, but like everybody else, they have already given most of their able-bodied men to the colors. The elderly, extremely youthful or weakly laborers they are compelled to rely on are unable to handle the work expeditiously.

Prices have jumped correspondingly. The removal of a vanload of furniture, for which the charge in normal times was two guineas (about $10) now costs $15. Great numbers of people have found it impossible to get vans on any terms and are requisitioning delivery wagons and even pushcarts and wheelbarrows.

Huge quantities of household goods are being stored. Warehouse room, too, is at a premium. It used to be calculated at the rate of 12

Swift's Fertilizers Continue to Make Winners

If you used Swift's Fertilizer and obtained the best yield in the state you would, of course, give our fertilizer the credit that was due it. NOW, if the following year's Champion used Swift's and this performance repeated from year to year, you naturally would begin to think that Swift's Red Steer Brand is a pretty good fertilizer, would you not?

Look at the Record and Decide Yourself.

There can be no better proof of the value of a fertilizer than the records made by those who use it. There must be merit in a fertilizer that produces the results stated below:

Mr. Will Essig, Tipton, Indiana—131 bushels corn per acre.

The largest yield of which there is any record in Indiana.

Mr. Essig was recently awarded a gold medal at the Panama Exposition. Used SWIFT'S.

Mr. Norris McHenry, Elizabethtown, Ind.—112 bushels per acre.

Winner of the Indiana 1914 Men's Five Acre Corn Contest. Used SWIFT'S. In 1915 he was induced to use other than Swift's Fertilizer and got no prize.

Mr. F. R. McHenry, Norris' father—used no fertilizer in 1914 and won no prize, but as his son won the State Championship in 1914 with the aid of Swift's Fertilizer, Mr. McHenry used Swift's in 1915, got 87.3 bushels of ripe corn per acre and won the sweepstakes for men in the Bartholomew County Five Acre Corn Contest.

The 1st, 2d, 3d and 4th prizes for the highest yields of good quality corn in the 1915 Five Acre Corn Contest for men in Bartholomew County, Indiana, all went to users of Swift's Fertilizer. Also in the Boys' One Acre Corn Contest in the same county, the 1st, 2d, 3d and 4th prizes went to users of Swift's Fertilizer.

The Ohio 1914 Champion Corn Grower, Arnett Rose, Alger, Ohio—153.9 bushels—used SWIFT'S.

The Ohio 1915 Champion Corn Grower, Dewey Haines, Arcanum, Ohio—154 bushels—used SWIFT'S.

The Indiana 1914 Boy Champion Corn Grower, Roy Friedersdorf, Elizabethtown, Ind.—128.8 bu.—used SWIFT'S.

Gordon Reap, Elizabethtown, Indiana, who was third last year, is County Champion with 105.73 bushels. He also used SWIFT'S this year.

There certainly MUST be something in Swift's Fertilizers that PRODUCES RESULTS. Swift's blood, bone and tankage fertilizers make prize winners.

If YOU do not use Swift's Fertilizers, you are not sure that you are using the best fertilizer obtainable. You want the best—then buy SWIFT'S—the Red Steer Brand.

HEAT FLASHES, DIZZY, NERVOUS

Mrs. Wynn Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her During Change of Life.

Richmond, Va.—"After taking seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I always had a headache during the change of life and was also troubled with other bad feelings common at that time—dizzy spells, nervous feelings and heat flashes. Now I am in better health than I ever was and recommend your remedies to all my friends."—Mrs. LENA WYNN, 2812 E. O Street, Richmond, Va.

While change of life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such warning symptoms are a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness.

For these abnormal conditions do not fail to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

OLD CUSTOMS TO BE BANISHED

When New Emperor of China is Crowned, it Will be First Peaceful Coronation in History

IT WILL BE ENTIRELY NEW

Plans Will Likely Not be Formulated Until After Parliament Meets in May or June

(By United Press.) Peking, April 7.—When Yuan Shih Kai is crowned emperor of China, if he is, it will be the first peaceful coronation in the annals of that empire. The attendant ceremonies will be entirely new to Chinese history, although they have not as yet been formulated and perhaps will not be until the parliament has been called together late in May or early in June.

Every other coronation in China has been either the occasion for the celebration of a military victory and a political overthrow, or it has been attended with mourning over the death of an emperor.

The custom of the Chinese in the case of death of the emperor always has been to announce first that the heir apparent had assumed the crown and then, within three hours, to follow that with the announcement of the death of the emperor.

The announcement of the demise of the ruler always has brought with it a period of three years of national mourning, during which time there have been no national ceremonies or celebrations. At the end of the period of mourning the emperor had merely laid aside his clothes of mourning and donned the royal robes.

When the coronation has been the result of a military victory and a political overthrow it always has been an occasion for a military celebration, the announcement of the creation of new nobles, a grand military review and fetes and parades of those who are benefited by the new regime.

These celebrations have been, like all military celebrations, most elaborate.

There has been a great display of the nobles in the Chinese manner, wealth and pomp and the feting of together with an array of the military power of the new ruler and a joyous display of the spoils of war.

It seems most likely, however, that the coronation of Yuan Shih Kai will be a simple and democratic affair, for he has chosen as the name of his reign, "Hung Hsien," which in English means "the reign of the Grand Constitution."

The new emperor has chosen to make his reign one for the people. It is unlikely that he will create any new nobles, and his entrance to office likely will not be attended by any show of regality or superiority over the masses, for this is the very thing the new emperor hopes to obviate when he starts to build the new liberal empire of China, a political government too strong in its unity to be overthrown or weakened by ambitions or party dissension.

Hence it is the opinion here that coronation of Yuan Shih Kai perhaps will be accompanied only by a military review and the delivery of an inaugural address by the emperor.

This is merely a matter of conjecture, however, for the new empire will create its own ceremonies and customs, and will attempt to deviate from those of the imperial powers and dynasties that have gone before.

ELECTION NOTICE

RECENT FIGHT CAUSES TALK

Some Favor Abolishing Game in New York, While Others Would Increase Length of Bouts.

TWO FACTIONS SPRING UP

Persons Kicking the Hardest Never Even Attended Battle—Hard to Satisfy All.

(By United Press.) New York, April 7.—The seven rounds of the Willard-Morgan battle in Madison Square Garden March 25 was fast, but not half as fast as the fight talk the fans are now indulging in today.

Buzz, buzz, Willard this, Willard that, Morgan this, Morgan that, goes the gossip where the ringside forefathers and the rafter railbirds foregather. The bout busted the gossip wide open. Some think it was a great fight, some think it was rotten; some are for ten round championship bouts every week, others think they should be abolished altogether.

"As a result of the brutal, degrading exhibition of the brute in man at the Willard-Morgan fight," boxing should forever be abolished in New York, says one clan.

"The bout showed conclusively that the city wants boxing and wants it bad. To give the people what they pay for the state should at once permit twenty-round bouts with decision," is the conclusion of another.

In between is a host, and each of the host has an idea of his own. Out of the turmoil few things stand plain. The mill shook New York as no fight in history has. Tom Jones, whose man Willard got away with more than half a hundred thousand dollars, thinks it was a wonderful fight, perfectly staged and arranged and he would like to see things like it recur frequently.

Moran hasn't any kick. The persons who think it was worth the money are those who paid to see it. The persons kicking the hardest didn't see the mill and probably don't know whether the scrapers used their feet or their hands.

"Tanlac Has Made Young Man OF Me"

Words of Albert Radcliff an Aged Farmer, Ring With Real Joy.

Kokomo, Ind., April 7.—Albert Radcliff, a well-known farmer of advanced age who lives on Rural Route No. 2, Forrest Clinton County, Ind., is in the foremost ranks of the thousands who are praising Tanlac, the Master Medicine. Mr. Radcliff recently said:

"Stomach and liver trouble made me a very sick man for two years. I was awfully constipated and suffered almost constantly from a fullness in my stomach. I didn't eat very much, but what I did eat, did not agree with me. My liver was sluggish, I had an unpleasant taste in my mouth, and my breath was foul.

"Finally my condition became so I couldn't work. I tried almost every medicine sold, but never was able to get relief until I tried Tanlac a few days ago. And I naturally was astonished at the quick relief Tanlac gave me. In three days I felt better and in a week I was able to get out over my farm. Now, my appetite is fine, I enjoy what I eat, and the constipation has been relieved. Tanlac has made a young man of me."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, rheumatism, catarrhal complaints, and is an invigorant, tonic, appetizer, and blood purifier.

Tanlac is sold exclusively in Rushville at F. E. WOLCOTT'S Drug Store.

BIG BATTLE WAS PULLED EARLY

Verdun Attack Was Originally Planned For April, But a Little Sunshine Changed Things.

GERMANS WERE PREPARED

Mid-Winter Dry Spell, A Rarity in France Said to Have Change in Plans.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
Paris, March 12.—(By Mail)—"April Showers"

Bring May flowers." You know that one, don't you? Well try this one on your vocal chords: "January suns Bring February guns!" The German Crown Prince first made the practical application of this truth, but the proverb is ours likewise the versification school histories of 1916 to the contrary notwithstanding.

A close study of the Battle of Verdun proves it to have been a freak of nature, like January strawberries, or peach-blossoms in December.

The Battle of Verdun was planned for April or May, but in the German military plans there was an unless, which, when followed by the remainder of the sentence read: "Unless by some strange atmospheric phenomenon we get a long spell of fine, dry weather before that time."

True to Teutonic traditions or preparedness, as early as December the Germans began bringing up material for use in the attack. Every available big howitzer, including the 305s and the 420s, was hauled to the Verdun sector through which the Crown Prince hoped to make a breach and commence a march on Paris down the historic poplar lined roads following the banks of the Marne. Trenches were dug, ammunition in vast quantities was stored at strategic points and everything in ship shape for springing the big offensive.

Then the January sun came out. Rarest of all rarities in France, a mid-winter dry spell came accompanied by lots of spring like days and sunshine. From January 15 until the middle of February one would have thought May at hand. The "strange atmospheric phenomenon" had come to pass, and the decision to let fly was the result. According to German prisoners they had been told on the eve of the battle:

"The artillery is going to blaze the way for you. It will do its work so completely that all you will have to do will be to march at parade step into Verdun."

They were told, they said that the fighting would not amount to much and it would all be over in no time. Judging from what the German soldiers admit, the Crown Prince's plans must have included a swift punch and a quick victory, with Verdun and outlying forts, as a minimum in German possession.

Otherwise, experts are agreed, probably he never would have undertaken the Verdun attack. For, to plan long drawn out operations in which artillery is the mainstay, said operations to be largely dependent upon the foibles of the weather, is more stupid than foolhardy.

So it was that the January suns brought the February guns as per the cute little poem. Pretty weather and daffydowndillies having had the temerity to intrude on the preserves of January and February, the Crown Prince called his staff about him and said: take only a couple of days or so to get to Verdun and then if it rains, who cares?"

So the big battle about Verdun was all because of a little, nice, warm sun shine, which forgot its cue and made its entrance too soon.

Chosen State Statistician

HENRY A. ROBERTS

Physicians Prescription For Rheumatism

Business and professional men of large means who have taken expensive baths at famous resorts and have spent money lavishly to rid themselves of the tormenting agony of rheumatism have turned to Rheuma and got well.

When Rheuma goes in, poisonous secretions go out. No opiates or narcotics are used. Rheuma drives out the cause of rheumatism and speedily brings comfort and health, and most druggists will admit it.

Two bottles of Rheuma will cost you a dollar of F. B. Johnson's drug store or any druggist, and if this purchase does not bring you the freedom from pain and misery you expected, your money is waiting for you.

Tooth Loose? Watch out for Pyorrhea!

When you find a tooth that gives back and forth, even just a little, see your dentist at once.

He will find conditions which you might overlook. He will find a gum recession, even though slight, where the gums have pulled away from the teeth. And he will tell you that you have the dread disease pyorrhea.

From pyorrhea come by far the greater part of all tooth troubles. Unless treated and checked, it will result not only in the shrinking and malformation of your gums and of the bony structure into which your teeth are set, but in the loss of the teeth themselves.

A specific for pyorrhea has been discovered recently by dental science, and is now offered for daily treatment in Senreco Tooth Paste. Senreco combats the germ of the disease. Its regular use insures your teeth against the attack or further progress of pyorrhea.

But Senreco does more. It cleanses the teeth delightfully. It gives them a whiteness distinctive of Senreco alone. Its flavor is entirely pleasing, and it leaves in the mouth a wonderful sense of coolness and wholesomeness.

Start the Senreco treatment before pyorrhea grips you for good. Details in folder with every tube. A two-ounce tube for 25c is sufficient for 6 weeks' daily treatment. Get Senreco of your druggist today; or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Santanel Remedies Company 503 Union Central Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

AEROPLANES TO DO PATROL DUTY

Bill Provides For a Fleet of Fifty as Auxiliaries to Coast Guard Cutters.

ONE FOR EVERY 100 MILES

Newspaperman Conceived the Idea—Possibilities of Fleet Said to be Great.

(By United Press.)

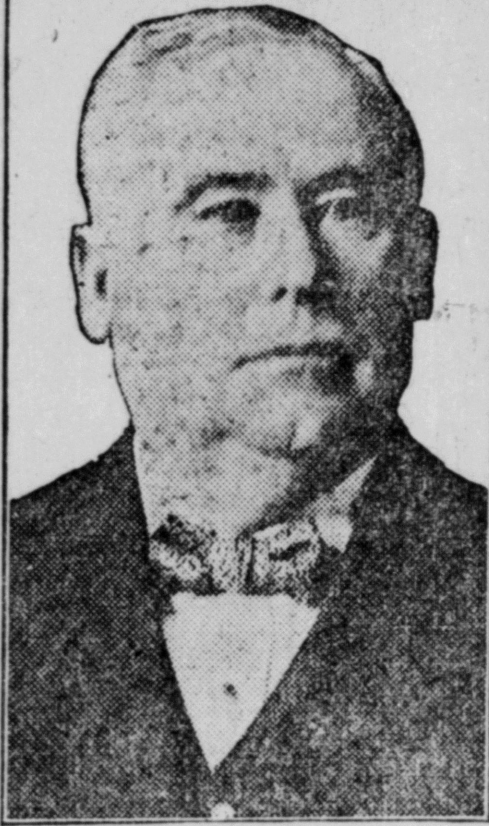

Washington, April 7.—It was learned today that a fleet of 50 aeroplanes to patrol the Pacific and Atlantic coast as auxiliaries to the U. S. Coast Guard cutters, is the proposition set forth in a bill to be introduced during the present session of Congress. The bill will ask for an appropriation of $500,000 for the purchase and maintenance of the fleet. There are 5000 miles of coast in the U. S. and it is proposed to have an aeroplane stationed every 100 miles.

Lookouts in aeroplanes would be able to sight ships in distress much more readily than the lookouts on board coast guard cutters; and since the air machine can attain a greater speed than the cutters, aid could be despatched to distressed vessels more quickly. It is maintained that these coast guard aeroplanes would be a valuable addition to the military forces in time of war.

The possibilities of this fleet are great. Equipped with searchlights at night they might prove far more adequate than light ships, and it is held that an aeroplane would be of great service to coast guards in carrying breeches buoy lines to ships ashore, when the surf is running too high for the launching of a life boat.

Mayo Dudley, a Washington newspaperman, conceived the idea, and has been instrumental in the drawing up of the bill. Coast guard officials, the Aero Club of America and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Newton have endorsed the proposed bill.

WANT NAME FOR STATE MOVIE

Prize is Offered For Title of Historical Motion Picture For Indiana Centennial.

TO BE SEVEN REEL PICTURE

Title Must Show That Entire History of State is to be Told—Chance For $25.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7.—A "Hoosier-Made" name is needed for the historical motion picture now being produced for use during the Indiana centennial. Indiana people asked today to suggest the proper title for the picture. The announcement carried the attractive feature that the person submitting the accepted title will be paid $25. The film is to be in seven parts or reels and will be about 7,000 feet in length. The first two reels will tell the story of the state from the time of the French explorations until the constitutional convention held in 1816.

The main story of the centennial period from 1816 to 1916 will be told in the five remaining reels. The title to be adopted must show that the entire history of the state is too big to tell. The Interstate Historical Pictures Corporation, American Central Life building, Indianapolis, which has contracted with the state to produce the picture, will receive all suggested names.

WAR HITS THE CITY PLANT

Superintendent Gets List of Increases in Supplies

The city water and light plant has not escaped the increase in prices for supplies of plumbing and steam fitting materials caused by the war. Superintendent Mahin has received a price list showing the percentage of increase since the war began. According to the list copper has advanced 109 per cent; aluminum 174 per cent; sheet copper 117 per cent; lead 70 per cent; zinc 25 per cent; tin 51 per cent. All of these metals are used by the city.

SCHOOL TEACHER ARRESTED.

(By United Press.)

Columbus, Ind., April 7.—Miss Evelyn Smith, school teacher, who believes that to spare the rod is to spoil the child, will be tried here soon in the court of Justice of the Peace Kinney. She spanked the 11-year-old son of Quiller Miller so thoroughly that the latter filed charges of "A. & B." against her. She pleaded not guilty.

APPROPRIATION
OFF FUNDS, CHARGET. E. Trackwell Declares His Sister's
Money Was Used by Owners of
Gold Fish "Farm."

ABOUT $16,000 IS INVOLVED

Suit Sent Here From Shelby County
is Started in the Circuit Court
Today.

The suit of Thomas E. Trackwell, administrator of the late Samantha J. Shoup against Mrs. Maggie Irvin, Chester C. Heck and Susie Brown, sent here on a change of venue from Shelby county, started in circuit court this morning. The suit is for the conversion of trust funds and for an accounting in which $16,000 is involved. The case, which is the most important tried here in several terms, is being heard by Judge Raymond Springer of Connorsville.

The suit will practically open the books of the firm of Shoup and Heck, operators of the famous gold fish ponds near Waldron as far back as 1910. A great array of legal talent is engaged in the suit and it will be hard fought. The case is not expected to be completed until the first of next week. The plaintiff is represented by McDaniel and Ross of Shelbyville, and John A. Tittsworth of this city, while the defendants are represented by Hord and Adams, Carter and Morrison of Shelbyville, and Kiplinger and Smith of this city.

The gold fish "farm" was operated by William Shoup, husband of the late Samantha Shoup and Charles Heck, first husband of Mrs. Maggie Irvin. At the death of Mr. Shoup, his widow and Mr. Heck continued to operate the business, which is said to have been very profitable. The complaint alleges that Mrs. Shoup, who was quite aged, entrusted the management of her interests to the defendants, and in 1910 turned over to them the sum of $9,292.99.

It is alleged that the business was conducted on a profitable basis and that later an additional sum was placed in the bank, amounting to $7,184. The plaintiff maintained that the defendants took advantage of the age and ill health of Mrs. Shoup and converted the funds of the firm for their own personal use.

Charles Heck, the junior member of the firm was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Following his death his widow, now Mrs. Irvin, and her son, Chester Heck, and Mrs. Shoup continued to operate the business. Mrs. Irvin was reared by the Shoups and was not a daughter, Susie Brown, who is named as a defendant, was the bookkeeper of the firm. In 1913 Mrs. Shoup became so infirm that a guardian was appointed and it is alleged that at this time there was only $500 to her credit in the bank.

Thomas Trackwell, the plaintiff to the suit, is the only living relative of Mrs. Shoup, he being her brother. It is alleged that the defendants have made no accounting to the administrator of the estate. It was stated that checks would be introduced in evidence to show that the defendants used the funds for their own use.

In the opening statement for the defense Ed K. Adams stated that the defense maintained that where there was a joint-conversion there could be no judgment for conversion against one party. Mr. Adams stated that it would be shown that Trackwell showed little consideration for his sister, the late Mrs. Shoup, before her death, but following her death his interest picked up greatly. He stated that after Mr. Shoup died the parties operating the

HIS LEGS ARE PARALYZED

Clarence Palmer, who was injured about two weeks ago in a fall through a skylight at the Windsor hotel, is in the Long Memorial hospital, Indianapolis, believed to be suffering with a broken back. At the time of the accident Palmer was not believed to be badly hurt, but he did not improve and the attending physician believes that the last dorsal vertebra was fractured in the fall. Palmer is paralyzed from his hips down and while he is not in any immediate danger it is believed he will never walk again should he recover. In order to determine definitely whether the vertebra is fractured the hospital physicians are to make an X-ray examination.

TROOPERS FIGHT
THE THIRD BATTLEClash With Villistas at Cieneguilla,
Mexico, Killing Ten And
Capturing Two

OTHER FIGHT CONFIRMED

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 7.—Americans and Villistas have fought their third engagement since the punitive expedition crossed the border.

The engagement occurred Tuesday at Cieneguilla. Ten Villistas were killed and two captured. Carranza troops co-operated with the Americans in the engagement, news of which reached the war department today. The same message confirmed reports of the fight at Aguas Calientes between American and Villistas last Sunday.

The official message said Colonel Brown and his men of the Tenth cavalry had been living for two weeks on beef and corn but that a mining company has now made available food and money.

The message said it was rumored that Villa was wounded.

The funeral services of Dr. H. H. Elliot will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the United Presbyterian church. The remains, however, will be at the church at one o'clock and the casket will be open for anyone who may care to come and view them.

Atwell Morgan and Sidney Morgan have filed suit on an account against Dora Gwinnup, demanding $150.

ART OF WAR IS
PLAINLY SHOWNWith All Its Gruesome, 20th Century
Efficiency, Present Conflict Is Depicted.

WAR FILMS ARE COMING HERE

Man Behind the Camera Absolutely
Ignored Element of Danger in Getting Pictures.

The art of war, in all its gruesome 20th Century efficiency, is vividly shown in the film, "With Von Hindenburg's Army at the Front," which is being exhibited next Tuesday at Princess theater under the auspices of the Daily Republican.

W. H. Durborough, representing the Newspaper Enterprise Association, was the man behind the camera, and with his assistant, Irving Rees, he absolutely ignored the element of personal danger in a successful struggle to picture the terrific campaign in East Prussia, Prussian Poland which finally gave Warsaw to Germany.

The perfectly adjusted machine by which Germany has achieved such marvelous military distinction is shown in minute detail.

There are pictures of the famous Hamburg derby as well as the devastated cities of East Prussia, the royal family at Potsdam just before the heart-rending views showing the hordes of homeless wanderers in Poland; the excited crowds cheer the progress of the fresh troops as they parade down Under den Linden, and the wounded soldiers are shown being withdrawn from the trenches of the hospitals.

Phases of the actual attack on Novo Georgievsk, the Russian stronghold, whose fall opened the way to Warsaw, are deeply interesting.

Zeppelins hover at dusk over Warsaw, floating ominously in the air like great birds. Then there are pictures of the great Mazurian Lake, which was made the grave of 10,000 Russian soldiers, of Doberitz, biggest of all the German prison camps; the famous Death's Head hussars, a regiment of Uhlans charging, and numerous scenes showing the operations of the engineering department. Interesting individuals, of whom there are near views, include the kaiser, the kaiserin, the princess royal, the crown prince and his brothers, Gen. von Hindenburg, Gen. von Beseler, the son of Count von Bernstorff, Ambassador Gerard, Jane Addams in Berlin, Prince of Reuss, Prince Max of Baden, Seven Hedin, and numerous American correspondents of wide reputation.

SELLS INTEREST IN PAPER

Charles W. Stivers, who is well known in sixth district Republican politics, has sold his interest in the Liberty Herald, a weekly newspaper to his son, Orion L. Stivers, according to an announcement in the current issue.

CABINET DISCUSSES CASE

Many do Not See Any Possible Way
For Germany to Declare Herself to Prevent Rupture

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 7.—The United States government is absolutely convinced a German torpedo struck the Channel packet Sussex. A statement from Berlin is now awaited as to Germany's intentions. In the light of this fact, the administration does not propose to wait long.

These facts were made known today as the president's cabinet gathered at the white house to consider the situation.

When President Wilson and his cabinet met to discuss for the fourth time since the wrecking of the Sussex the relation between this country and Germany, uncertainty, solemnity and anticipation mingled in the atmosphere about the white house. Little doubt remained that the government will soon announce its intended action. But the length to which the president may go was little discussed by officials.

Secretary Lansing had ready for presentation additional proof that the Sussex was torpedoed by a German submarine. The evidence was compiled by the French government and by American naval attaches. In addition the secretary had numerous dispatches that indicated Germany has embarked on a new submarine campaign apparently regardless of assurances given the United States government months ago.

The apparent seriousness of the international situation has been reflected the past few days by the absolute secrecy established both at the white house and state department. The lid on news has been clamped down tight.

As fast as the date comes into the state department, it is forwarded to President Wilson. During the past few days state department messengers have taken a score of confidential papers to the white house. Officials have said that this government out of diplomatic courtesy will take no action until word has come from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin regarding the German position. This should not require much longer. At any rate this government will not allow the matter to drag indefinitely.

It has been indicated so strongly in recent days that the government is preparing to break off relations in the event. Proof against Germany is conclusive that many officials do not see the possibility of Berlin declaring herself in a way that will avoid this rupture.

Disavowal, reparation and real punishment of the submarine commander are the strongest actions expected by even the most sanguine administration men. Others are hopeful a settlement of the whole submarine issue may be brought about as the price paid by Germany for maintenance of diplomatic relations. These believe such a settlement conceding all the United States has contended for and giving assurances that could not be broken would save the present critical situation.

In any event, it was once more made clear today if a break is to be avoided by Germany's act, this act must come voluntarily and soon.

GARAGE BEING IMPROVED

Cement Building Will Replace Frame
at Bussard Place.

Extensive improvements have been started on the Bussard garage, corner of Second and Perkins streets. The rear end of the building, which was frame, has been razed and will be replaced with a concrete structure. When it is completed the repair department of the garage will be moved into it and that part of the building which is used for the shop will be torn down and a cement building erected, joining up with the other new section. The front part of the building is brick. When completed the garage will be a half block long.

ECKSTROM GOES
BEFORE GRAND JURYMan Accused of Appropriating
Funds of Co., by Which he
Was Employed Still in Jail

NOW OUT OF SQUIRE'S COURT.

Ernest Eckstrom, the piano salesman held in jail in default of $300 bond on a charge of grand larceny, was before the grand jury this morning. Eckstrom is alleged to have appropriated the sum of $117.75 from the funds of the Baldwin piano company. The affidavit against him was filed before Squire Kratzer, but as his court has not final jurisdiction over the case should he plead guilty or be found guilty, the grand jury investigated and it may land in the circuit court.

Eckstrom was before the grand jury for about an hour. He is said to have admitted to the squire that he took the money, but he intended paying it back. The piano company did not desire to prosecute and would rather settle the case by having Eckstrom pay the money. So far he has been unable to raise the necessary amount.

WIDOW OF FORMER
CONGRESSMAN DIESMrs. Anna Sexton Expires at Age
of Eighty Years After a Prolonged Illness

LIVED HERE MOST OF LIFE

Mrs. Anna Sexton, 80 years old, widow of the late Leonidas Sexton, one time lieutenant governor of Indiana and member of congress from this district, died Thursday afternoon at five o'clock at her home in North Morgan street. Death was due to senility. She had been in ill health for a long time and death was expected.

Mrs. Sexton was a native of Kentucky, being born in Paducah, October 9, 1836. She came here with her parents at an early age and had been a resident here ever since. Mrs. Sexton was the mother of the late Gates Sexton, who was a well known attorney of Rushville. She is survived by one grandson, William Sexton.

The funeral services will be conducted Saturday morning at ten o'clock at the late residence and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

DEFEATS TAKEN:
NO BITTERNESSHarmony is Watchword of Republican State Convention And
Olive Branch is Extended

PROGRESSIVES FARE WELL

Convention Liberal in Reception of
Watson And New, Giving
Watson Real Ovation

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7.—The exodus of Republican state convention to all parts of the state began last night when the convention closed and continued throughout the day. The convention was pronounced the most enthusiastic and harmonious one ever held by the Republicans of Indiana.

Harmony was the watchword. The olive branch was extended far out to the former Progressives. It was the kind of harmony that has not been practiced by the Republicans of the state since way back in 1906.

Although there was a large field of candidates and only a small portion could win, defeat in yesterday's convention was not taken bitterly by anyone. There was little of the spectacular and no element of the unexpected, except that which would result from a nomination where there were two or more candidates. The applause frequently was deafening at the conclusion of each contest.

The popularity of the heads of the ticket was thoroughly attested when James P. Goodrich, James E. Watson and Harry S. New were nominated by acclamation. As evidence of the fine spirit that prevailed, Republicans pointed New and Watson, seated side by side on the stage and alluded to by Horace Stillwell of Anderson, former Progressive leader in the state, who was the permanent chairman, with the following quip: "We will let the Gold Dust twins complete their work and clean up the state."

The election of Ed C. Toner, editor of the Anderson Herald and former Progressive state chairman, as fourth delegate-at-large to the national convention was also conceded to be a fine stroke on the part of the convention to indicate that there were no hard feelings against those who left the party in 1912. Events broke right when Winfield T. Durbin of Anderson, who expected to contest with Toner for the place, withdrew just before the convention opened.

Although Frank F. Heighway of Lake county was picked to win the state superintendency nomination, Horace Ellis of Vincennes, who was the candidate in 1914, surprised the supporters of Heighway by winning on the second ballot.

John B. Cockrum of Indianapolis a close friend of New, to place New and Watson in nomination for United States senator and to move their nominations be made by acclamation. His motion helped to remove whatever feeling had existed. The convention was liberal in its reception of New and Watson. It gave Watson a real ovation. Watson expressed his pride at being placed on the ticket with New and Goodrich.

The race for treasurer contained the only sentimental feature of the day. Uz McMurtrie of Marion, who was regarded as a sure winner, "came through" successfully, but after a close rub, on the second ballot. His friends had the best organization in the convention. "Buzz for Uz," was a good rallying cry for McMurtrie. When his name was presented his friends, stationed in the balconies flooded the floor below with small bits of colored paper.

business submitted monthly reports to Mrs. Shoup and that she was kept informed at all times regarding the business of the company.

The defense maintains that Mrs.

Shoup was conversant with the facts of the business, and that the defendants did nothing without first consulting her. The defense will introduce evidence to explain the falling off of the funds. It will be shown, Mr. Adams stated, that a calamity hit the business when the water supply to the gold fish ponds was cut off and that considerable of this money was used in fighting the case through the Shelbyville circuit court.

The water supply to the gold fish ponds was obtained from springs on an adjoining farm. When this farm

CHAPLIN AS GOOD A COIN SAVER AS HE IS AT FILM COMEDY STUFF

Some of His Friends Say That he Has the Oldest Money in California Because he Positively Refuses to Learn to Write a Check.

"This guy is good," remarked Chaplin to the boss of the Niles film ranch. "He's handed me a bunch of laughs. I'll bet he can make other people laugh."

Had Jamieson been pulled from his piano and given small roles in the Chaplin comedies. He made an instant hit, and he is doing well at present.

At Niles they say that Chaplin's thrift in money matters is exceeded by none, and equaled only by that well-known Scotch coin preserver, Harry Lauder.

"Chaplin has got some of the oldest money in California," said one of his colleagues at Niles. "He never had a bank account till he joined the Essanay, and in a few years he'll be selling at a premium the coin he received as his first week's salary. He didn't know how to make out a bank account till a few months ago, and he didn't know how to draw a check. One of the boys offered to show him how to make out a check. Chaplin watched him a few minutes and then shut his eyes tight, and turned away."

"I don't want to learn. I don't want to learn."

"But he is learning how to write a check," said another movie actor. "I saw him write a check once."

"You did?" yelled a chorus of doubting actors and actresses.

"I did. It was on April 21, or was it March 21? Well, anyhow, it was on the twenty-first of some month. I remember because Chaplin wrote the date 21th."

Tabooing "Tabby."

Most of the film actors at Niles live in cottages. Chaplin occupied a cottage with one of the actors, and at first bade fair to become a popular member of the colony, but that was before he brought his "Tabby" to Niles. One day he returned from San Francisco in great glee carrying under his arm a battered violin case. The same night he began to make night life in Niles ludicrous with the mournful strains in which he tortured out of an ancient and disreputable violin. The film folk promptly likened Chaplin's playing to the wailing of an old tabby-cat on a back fence at midnight, mourning over a misspent life. The musically inclined actors aver that Chaplin has assassinated more tunes on his violin than a score of German street bands. There was some talk of dipping the film star and his "Tabby" into the bay, but nothing came of it. The rioters evidently remembered that Tabbies have nine lives. The actors recovered their sense of humor, and when the wailing, discordant notes of Chaplin's fiddle broke the rustic evening stillness, they joined in a lugubrious chorus, each voice a semi-tone out of tune.

Chaplin's habits are mostly those of a bat. Those who know him best say he would never go to bed if he could have his own way about it. He is by nature, "a sun dodger," according to his companions. He has never been known to raven after sunset, but none of the other characteristics of a night hawk are his. He does not drink. In fact, his dissipation is confined to turning day into night and smoking. But sleep or no sleep, Charlie Chaplin has never been known to show the lack of sturder the next day. When the Australian Boys' Club which has been visiting the Exposition and the Pacific coast and Canada came to Niles, Chaplin presented himself unannounced. He was immediately ly recognized by one of the lads who had seen him in pictures in the Antipodes. "There's Charlie."

"There is Charlie Chaplin!" shouted the boy, and Chaplin found himself surrounded by the youngsters. The comedian went through all his favorite poses, relieved the bandmaster of his baton, and led the band, going through his whole repertoire of antics. It was an awful concert, for the boys could not play their instruments and laugh at Chaplin at the same time. The boys gave him three kangaroo cheers when the concert was finished, and Chaplin returned the compliment by presenting each of the lads with his autographed photograph.

The Hotel Oakland was made the scene of one of Chaplin's comedies. Out of a side entrance staggered Chaplin one sunny morning in a terribly disheveled condition, chased by another actor. Evidently, there had been an annihilating fight in the preceding scene. Both men were supposed to be filled to the tonsils with some compound of rum. They ran and tumbled and rolled around a corner, out of the camera's range, and into its range stepped other actors and actresses, supposed to be in the same party, and when they had finished their turn, the camera man stopped turning the crank, waiting for Chaplin and his companion to return. The company and the camera man waited in vain. Finally one of the actors noticed a number of people running from all directions toward Fourteenth street where Chaplin and his partner had disappeared. He walked toward the corner of Fourteenth street just in time to see a patrol wagon dash up to a large crowd of people. A minute or so later three or four fat policemen struggled from the center of the jam toward the patrol wagon dragging Chaplin and his companion. The pair had tumbled into the arms of a conscientious officer who thought Chaplin and his friends were intoxicated. Explanations availed nothing. "Tell it to the judge."

"You do your explaining to the judge," was the policeman's only reply, and it took the combined efforts of the whole movie company to release Chaplin and his fellow actor.

Chaplin's first appearance in Oakland caused nearly a riot. With several movie actors, he was about to enter a restaurant when he was recognized, and the cry of "Here's Charlie Chaplin!" summoned every rubber neck in the vicinity. Chaplin escaped into the restaurant, and the crowd followed. Chaplin did not want to disappoint his admirers, so he took a ketchup bottle and emptied it into the pocket of a waiter. Somebody grabbed the waiter's strong right arm just before the bottle descended on Charlie's head. The restaurant was in an uproar. When the table was laid and the order served, Chaplin disposed of his frugal meal just as he sometimes does in the film comedies. It was not refined fun, but the crowd laughed because it had seen a living demonstration of the comedy king.

Mention has been made of the fact that Chaplin talks to himself when he is alone. As a matter of fact, he talks to himself whether alone or in a crowd when he is not talking to someone else. The moment he ceases talking with anyone else, Charlie takes up the conversation with Mr. Chaplin.

was sold, the new owner, it is alleged, destroyed the tiling and water pipes, making it almost impossible for the gold fish business to continue. The litigation involved over this is still remembered in Shelby county as being one of the hardest fought suits ever tried there and was eventually settled when Mrs. Irvin, then Mrs. Heck, bought the land containing the springs for $9000. The plaintiff will object to this testimony being offered, but Judge Springer intimated that it was permissible in order to show the expenditures.

WHEAT ESTIMATE PROVES TOO HIGH

Reduction of 24 Per Cent is Indicated Over Forecast of April 1 of Last Year

SMALL ACREAGE ONE CAUSE

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 7.—A reduction of 24 per cent in the winter wheat crop as compared with the estimate of April 1, 1915 is indicated in the department of agriculture report today.

The small production forecast—497,000,000 bushels—is due partly, the department said, to a reduction of 11 per cent in acreage and to a low condition of growth, 78.3 per cent of normal, lower than any year on April 1 since 1904 and ten per cent lower than the ten-year average on April 1.

MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK.

And the Lesson the Small Investor Needs to Learn.

The advice of one of the large banks of the country is that every one should invest his surplus, whether large or small, in dividend securities of the best class, whether railroad, real estate or farm mortgages or public utilities, for "To keep money idle is a costly operation."

Let every reader of this article remember that with as little as $5 or $10 he can make first payment on the purchase of a first class $100 bond. Let every reader who has a few hundred dollars to spare put it in a good $500 or $1,000 bond on the partial payment plan, and let it earn something. Five hundred dollars invested in a 6 per cent bond (with the income deposited in a savings bank at 4 per cent) will double itself in twelve years—that is, the $500 will have become $1,000 in that time. This $1,000 at 6 per cent will earn $60 a year or over $1 a week for its possessor. Even at 5 per cent it will double in fifteen years and at 4 per cent in eighteen years.

The lesson the small investor wants to learn is that his money is just as good as that of the larger investor. The former has greater need of being careful because he has less to spare. Learn to be a careful investor. The first thing the careful buyer does if he wants to buy a horse, a cow, a house or a farm, a bond or a share of stock is to make a careful investigation. Schoolboys may swap the jackknives they hold in their closed hands, but grownup men ought to know better. The humblest investor can buy with as great safety as the proudest, for both can deal with the same bankers or brokers in these days when small lots are popular with firms of established character.—Leslie's Weekly.

Surgeons Made a Stomach For Arnold Smaller Than a Tennis Ball.

Baltimore.—Surgeons connected with the University hospital are much interested in an operation performed several days ago, when a large portion of the stomach of Harold B. Arnold was removed and a new digestive organ formed from the unaffected tissues, slightly smaller than the ordinary tennis ball, was put in its place.

His condition is now greatly improved, and he receives predigested food through a glass tube.

In the event of the complete recovery of Arnold he will have to receive nourishment at least a dozen times a day because of the minuteness of his stomach. It is so small now that it will only contain the amount of liquid held by an ordinary teacup.

Another Vera Cruz?

Press reports of rumors that the American expedition may be withdrawn from Mexico and the practical certainty that such is the wish of the Carranza government causes immediate speculation as to whether the present episode will be another Vera Cruz.

The way Huerta made this government take back everything it said when the fleet was sent to Mexican waters is still fresh in the minds of the American people. President Wilson sent word to Huerta to salute the American flag. Huerta replied that he would salute the flag if the United States would return the salute. Such a thing was impossible because it would have been recognition of the Huerta regime, which this government had refused.

The United States ordered the punitive expedition into Mexico for the avowed purpose of capturing Villa dead or alive for the atrocities he had committed on Americans. To withdraw without accomplishing its purpose would be an admission of failure, of inability to catch a single bandit. Such was the deplorable termination of the Vera Cruz incident. But in this case it would be even more to be regretted.

Every day events made it more and more certain that in the end the policy of "watchful waiting" applied to Mexico will be a failure. Carranza, although protesting to be in sympathy and to be actively co-operating with the American troops, has revealed that his protestations are insincere. His refusal to allow the use of Mexican railroads for the shipments of supplies are sufficient evidence.

ment, pause for the charge that he is not playing fair with this government. This latest development, the statement of General Gaviņa reflecting the belief of the Constitutionalists, to the effect that the United States should give up the Villa chase, makes it very plain where Carranza stands.

Still "Saving" Missouri.

The Democratic national convention was sent to St. Louis because Champ Clark told the committee it was necessary to do so if Missouri was to be "saved" to the Democratic party.

About a month ago ex-Governor David R. Francis was appointed Ambassador to Russia because it was felt necessary to give Missouri some added and special favor of federal patronage if the State was to be "saved" for Democracy.

Now the Missourians are demanding that Gov. Major be nominated for Vice President in order to "save" the State.

It surely does take a heap of "salvation" for Missouri Democrats these days. But the fact remains that Missouri cannot be "saved." The Democracy down there is beyond salvation. As in 1904 and 1908, Missouri will from present indication this year give her electoral vote to a Republican President publican State administration and in addition she will elect a Republican United States Senator, together with such other pickings, Congressmen and the like, as go with an overwhelming political victory.

Harmony was the watchword at the Republican state convention yesterday, indicating that the candidates will go down the road together, fighting for Republican success. The spectacle of Quincy Myers and Warren T. McCray standing on the stage and joining in the nomination of James P. Goodrich, their opponent in the primary, aroused the convention to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. The appearance of James E. Watson and Harry S. New was also the signal for loud applause, indicating the general satisfaction of the delegates and peaceful ending to one of the most hotly contested political races ever waged in Indiana.

The president says the United States is founded on its sense of humanity. O. K., but it will require some mighty big guns to maintain the foundation.

The advent of cramps, mosquitoes and other pestiferous insects is a sure indication of the approach of spring.

Frances Wright, philanthropist, social reformer and the first woman who advocated equal suffrage for both sexes was born in Dundee, Scotland, 1797. When nine years of age, she was left an orphan. But a small fortune fell to her lot, and she was given an excellent education by her guardian, the noted Jeremy Bentham. In her frequent travels on the continent, she met many famous characters, including Gen. Lafayette and noted local reformers of Hungary and Poland. Upon coming to the United States she was greatly impressed by the genuineness of Democracy that everywhere existed. Her "Views on Society and Manners in America" appeared in 1822, and she showered compliments upon the spirit of the new world. Coming west, she was attracted by the New Harmony movement settled there, and enlisted in the work.

Celebrating the hundredth anniversary of its founding, the American Bible society has announced that during its existence it has distributed a total of 109,926,214 volumes of Scripture in this and many foreign lands. The society was organized for the purpose of keeping the price of a Bible within reach of the poor to secure as wide distribution as possible. Similar societies have been organized in many of the nations of Europe.

Portions of the Scriptures have been printed in about 500 different dialects and languages. The entire Bible has been printed in a hundred different translations. It has been sent to every nook and corner of the world, and the work is growing each year.

A people which has not the Bible in its own language cannot have Sunday schools for Bible study. On the other hand, any community which reads the Bible is sure to have a Bible Sunday school. Every separate version of the Scriptures becomes thus a door of opportunity to the Sunday school enterprise, for it is a breach in the walls of Babel.

Thousands of Sunday schools in the United States, in Asia, in Africa and in the islands of the great, silent ocean owe their existence and their prosperity to the fact that the Bible has been translated into their native language.

The Bible societies of the world are counted by thousands, but as far as can be learned the most of these societies, as well as the home and foreign missionary societies of all Christendom, obtain the Scriptures, which are the essential implement of their work, from less than thirty Bible societies in Europe and America which print the Scriptures.

In 1914 the whole number of volumes issued by those societies which print was probably over 28,000,000. Of this number it is estimated that fully 27,000,000 were put into circulation.

Over five-sixths of this number—that is to say, 19,320,339 volumes—are issued by three English speaking societies—the British and Foreign Bible society (30,162,000), the American Bible society (8,296,323) and the Scottish National Bible society (2,762,616). The issues of these three societies include nearly the whole of the Scriptures used by the missions and Sunday schools in Asia, Africa and the islands of the Pacific ocean besides a great part of those distributed by the Sunday school unions in Christian lands.

The Bible societies often co-operate in dividing the expense of new translations of the Bible. They supply each other at cost with Scriptures in foreign languages when required.

A BIT OF HISTORY

The Attempt to Assassinate President Andrew Jackson.

QUEER MANIA OF A MADMAN.

Richard Lawrence, Who Sought to Kill "Old Hickory," and Only Failed Because His Pistols Missed Fire, Thought He About Owned the World.

Since the establishing of the United States, three successful attempts have been made to assassinate our presidents, and another one was a failure only through the weapon not discharging, when it was drawn upon President Andrew Jackson on Jan. 30, 1835. The news of this attempt spread like wildfire throughout the country, and consternation filled the public mind at the thought that the tragic mode of dealing with the crowned heads of kingdoms and empires had at last been tried upon the person of the popularly elected ruler of a free republic.

At the time of the attempted assassination of President Jackson, he was at the capitol, in attendance on the funeral of Hon. Warren R. Davis of South Carolina. The assassin was Richard Lawrence, a painter, residing in Washington. This individual was seen to enter the hall of the house of representatives during the delivery of the funeral sermon, but before its close, however, he had taken his stand on the eastern portico, near one of the columns.

The president, with the secretary of the treasury, on retiring from the rotunda to reach his carriage at the steps of the portico advanced toward the spot where Lawrence stood. The painter had his pistols concealed under his coat. When the president approached within two yards and a half of him Lawrence extended his arm and leveled the pistol at the president's breast. The percussion cap exploded with a noise so great that several witnesses supposed that the pistol had been discharged. On that instant the assassin dropped it from his right hand and, taking another ready cocked from his left, presented and snapped it at the president, who at the moment raised his cane and made for the assailant with lionlike energy and would have executed summary vengeance, but Secretary Woodbury and Lieutenant Godney at the same instant laid hold of the man, who gave way through the crowd and was at last knocked down, the president pressing after him until he saw he was secured. As soon as the assassin was known to the crowd they wished to kill the assassin on the spot.

Lawrence was at once conveyed to jail. When asked why he attempted to kill the president the assassin said because Jackson had killed his father. This proved to be a hallucination on his part. The total absence of any personal motive on the part of the prisoner suggested the idea that he must be insane.

Lawrence was a handsome young man of thirty-five years, small in stature, pale of complexion, with black hair and dark eyes. So great was the excitement produced by the affair that some of the most eminent political opponents of the president, including such men as Clay, Calhoun, Polk, and others, were in the frenzy of the moment suspected of having conspired in a plot to get rid of the president.

On the day of the trial Lawrence at first conducted himself in court with much ease, taking his seat very quietly beside his counsel and conversing smilingly with them. But when the first witness was called the prisoner sprang to his feet and demanded to know by what right they had brought him there, as he claimed the crown of Great Britain and also that of the United States. He made these same assertions frequently during his trial.

When Lawrence's counsel asked that he be withdrawn from the court to save further of his ridiculous outbursts the prisoner rose and addressed the judge wildly: "What I have done to Jackson was on account of the money he owes me. I consider all in this court as under me. The United States bank has owed me money since 1802, and I want my money. You are under me, gentlemen. It is for me, gentlemen, to pass upon you and not you upon me."

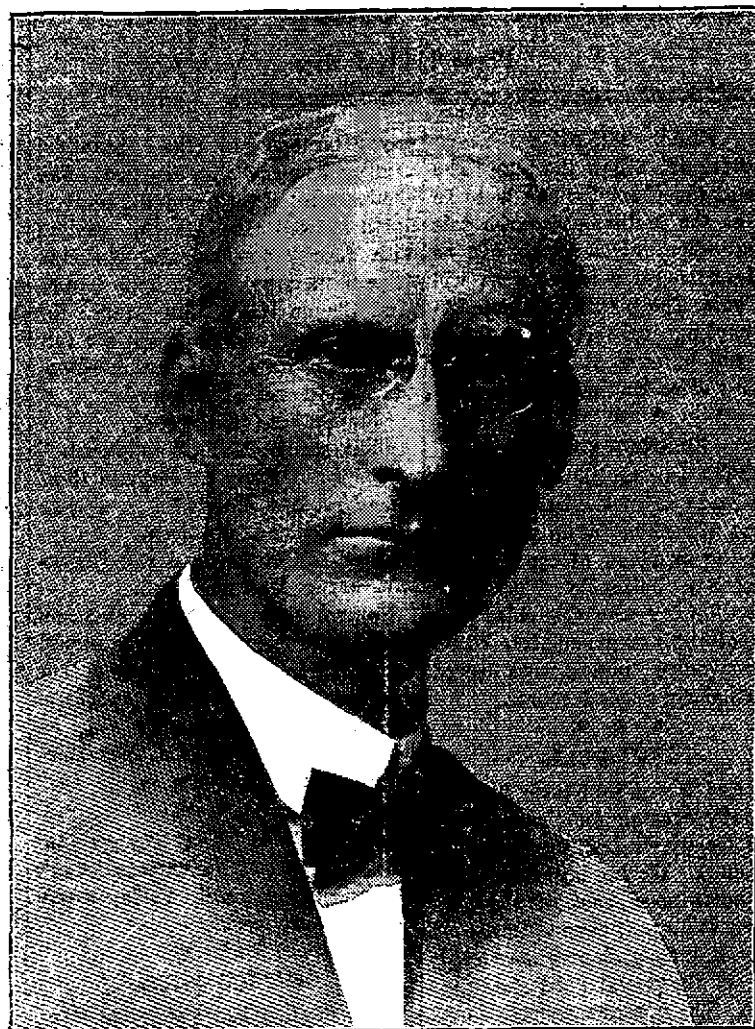

It was not very difficult for the counsel to prove that Lawrence was insane. Many witnesses were called to testify as to his peculiarities, covering a number of years. Several physicians were introduced into the case, and they were unanimous in declaring that Lawrence's state of mind was that of morbid delusion.

In accordance with the evidence thus given, the jury was out only five minutes, returning at once with a verdict of not guilty. Lawrence was sent to a lunatic asylum, where he remained an inmate close to forty years.—Philadelphia Press.

Stings of Animals Are Similar. In the examination of the poisonous machinery of insects and reptiles it is apparent that the destructive principle is the same in all and that the fang in all possesses a hollow through which the poison flows into the wound the moment the incision is made. The sting of the scorpion is precisely like the fang of the rattlesnake and performs its deadly work on the same mechanical principles.

If our children are not trained in the principles of thrift our nation as a whole will suffer for it later on.—Theodore Roosevelt.

boosting him. A band from Marion perched high above the crowd added to the noise and excitement.

McMurtrie won when he received the bulk of the vote in the Ninth, Tenth and Twelfth Districts, which swung to him after the first ballot.

The former Progressives fared well on the ticket. In addition to Toner for delegate at large, Thomas N. Davidson of Greensburg, and D. N. Foster, of Fort Wayne, who were chosen as contingent electors at large, are former Progressives.

Edgar D. Bush, the successful candidate for Lieutenant Governor, was an active Progressive in 1912. He received many votes on that account from Republicans who wanted to place a Progressive on the ticket.

Henry A. Roberts of Carmel, nominee for state statistician, was a Progressive in 1912. The former Progressives were given as much voice in the proceedings as they asked.

The following ticket was nominated, the hardest fights being waged for treasurer of state and superintendent of public instruction.

For Governor, James P. Goodrich of Winchester.

For United States senator, James E. Watson of Rushville, short term; Harry S. New of Indianapolis, long term.

For Lieutenant Governor, Edgar D. Bush of Salem.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY.

London, April 7.—An officer serving in Mesopotamia wrote home today as follows: "The Garden of Eden is not many hundred yards from my camp. On the river front grows a tree which has long, yellow beans and feathery leaves. It is the only one of its kind here, and 'T. Atkins' has named it 'The Forbidden Tree.' It is vicinity small Arab boys hawk cheap cigarettes, biscuits and 'thick' milk and the locality is known as 'Temptation Square.'"

BOX SOCIAL

The box social given by the Rebekahs last evening in the Odd Fellow hall proved to be a great success because of the informality and jollity of the affair. A social hour was spent in which the guests indulged in a number of old-fashioned games. The boxes which contained the lunches that the ladies had fixed were then distributed to the gentleman by numbers. Each box was accompanied by a hat which the gentleman, was asked to trim for his partner. Claude C. Owen was the winner for trimming his hat the best while E. C. McMahon proved the champion for trimming his hat the quickest. After a grand march the boxes were opened and the lunches enjoyed.

GETTING READY FOR BIG PARADE

Atlantic City Dusting Off Board
Walk in Preparation For
Easter Sunday Show

ADVANCE CROWD ON HANDS

Promenaders Already Have an Inkling of What Can be Expected
Later on

(By United Press.)

Atlantic City, N. J., April 7.—Atlantic City is getting ready for the Big Show Easter Sunday. It is dusting off the miles and miles of World famous Broadwalk, tramping up the sandy white beach and pluming itself generally for the gorgeous Easter Sunday rush of frilled and furbelowed society to the Peacock Parade.

Spring gowns feature the noon parades on the broadwalk. The vanguard of the Easter crowd arrived with the first warm days, and a number of prominent people who have been in the South area owing to the big hotels to remain until after Easter or later.

Ex-United States Senator Murray Crane and Mrs. Crane have arrived at the Marlborough-Bleheim. United States Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Charles Sumner Moore. Charles F. Murphy has been here and Mrs. G. S. Boissevain is here accompanied by Mrs. Sharswood. Bishop Greer and Mrs. Greer were at the Dennis. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Howe and Miss Laura Wiley Howe also are here.

Many persons prominent socially and in the business world came to the Traymore from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Montreal, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and other cities. From New York came Theodore F. Shonts. The larger business interests of Chicago were represented by Samuel Insull, who was accompanied by Mrs. Insull and Samuel Insull, Jr.; and by Edward Vinton Price and others. Colonel Peers Peers Davidson, son of the late Sir Charles Davidson, of Montreal, was here in preparation for a plunge into the European war at the head of his Scottish Highlanders of Canada. Robert J. Wynne, who was Postmaster General during the first Roosevelt administration, spent several days at the Traymore.

The last few days, especially Sunday, saw thousands of persons on the Broadwalk. Never before has so much evidence been obtained indicative that the resort is enjoying an unprecedented boom. All the hotels and boarding houses already have big crowds.

All this is preparatory to the real grand opening Easter Sunday. On that day personages representing billions of good United States currency, bedecked in the latest creations in style will roll or stroll on the Broadwalk, displaying their charms, costumes and ornaments.

The promenaders here now already give an inkling of what can be expected Easter Sunday. Last Sunday one young damsel, clinging to the arm of a Beau Brummel, nonchalantly tripped along displaying a pretty foot encased in black and white striped stockings and white boots.

Another young woman was a glaring symphony in checks. Around the skirt and on the coat of the costume she wore, were wide bands of black and green squares, alternating with white. The chief decoration of her headdress was large squares of red and green straw, woven into the texture of a brown straw hat.

The hats the woman-folk are wearing seem to attract considerable attention. Many of the new "sport" hats are in vogue. They are made of pink, blue, green and other colored straws and their sole decoration is the band, to all appearance just like a man's.

MOVING GOING ON IN ENGLAND

End of Quarter Finds Many Homes
Broken up as Men Prepare to Leave For Front.

SWAMPS FURNITURE HAULERS

Market For Second-Hand Goods
Remains Good—Lawyers Kept Busy Drawing Wills.

BY CHAS P. STEWART.

London, April 7.—More moving is being done in England today than ever before in the country's history. The movers are the families of married men who expect to leave shortly for one of the war fronts. This is the end of the "quarter" and as few middle class Englishmen can keep up their homes in their absence, they are breaking them up.

Furniture movers are hopelessly swamped. Not only has the unprecedented amount of business overwhelmed them, but like everybody else, they have already given most of their able-bodied men to the colors. The elderly, extremely youthful or weakly laborers they are compelled to rely on are unable to handle the work expeditiously.

Prices have jumped correspondingly. The removal of a vanload of furniture, for which the charge in normal times was two guineas (about $10) now costs $15. Great numbers of people have found it impossible to get vans on any terms and are requisitioning delivery wagons and even pushcarts and wheelbarrows.

Huge quantities of household goods are being stored. Warehouse room, too, is at a premium. It used to be calculated at the rate of 12 shillings ($2.88) per month per vanload. The charge now is $3.60.

Some families are selling their furniture outright. They do so at a sacrifice, but the market is not quite in so depressed a state as might be expected. Recent restrictions on the importation of material for furniture making has led to the expectations that the demand for this class of merchandise will soon exceed the supply and second-hand dealers are consequently paying fairly liberal prices.

Owners of antiques really are doing exceptionally well, owing to orders from neutral countries, which are rolling in war profits, in expectation of just such a situation as the present one.

In London the big boarding-house centers, like Bloomsbury and South Kensington, are gathering in enormous numbers of the refugees. The landladies unquestionably will do well, but their profits will be due rather to the heavy volume of their business than to large individual profits. The families left behind when the married men go to the front will have enough to live on meagerly, but not more. Lawyers never were so busy as now, drawing wills for the departing soldiers.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Swift's Fertilizers Continue to Make Winners

If you used Swift's Fertilizer and obtained the best yield in the state you would, of course, give our fertilizer the credit that was due it. NOW, if the following year's Champion used Swift's and this performance repeated from year to year, you naturally would begin to think that Swift's Red Steer Brand is a pretty good fertilizer, would you not?

Look at the Record and Decide Yourself.

There can be no better proof of the value of a fertilizer than the records made by those who use it. There must be merit in a fertilizer that produces the results stated below:

Mr. Will Essig, Tipton, Indiana—131 bushels corn per acre.

The largest yield of which there is any record in Indiana.

Mr. Essig was recently awarded a gold medal at the Panama Exposition. Used SWIFT'S.

Mr. Norris McHenry, Elizabethtown, Ind.—112 bushels per acre.

Winner of the Indiana 1914 Men's Five Acre Corn Contest. Used SWIFT'S. In 1915 he was induced to use other than Swift's Fertilizer and got no prize.

Mr. F. R. McHenry, Norris' father—used no fertilizer in 1914 and won no prize, but as his son won the State Championship in 1914 with the aid of Swift's Fertilizer, Mr. McHenry used Swift's in 1915, got 87.3 bushels of ripe corn per acre and won the sweepstakes for men in the Bartholomew County Five Acre Corn Contest.

The 1st, 2d, 3d and 4th prizes for the highest yields of good quality corn in the 1915 Five Acre Corn Contest for men in Bartholomew County, Indiana, all went to users of Swift's Fertilizer. Also in the Boys' One Acre Corn Contest in the same county, the 1st, 2d, 3d and 4th prizes went to users of Swift's Fertilizer.

The Ohio 1914 Champion Corn Grower, Arnett Rose, Alger, Ohio—153.9 bushels—used SWIFT'S.

The Ohio 1915 Champion Corn Grower, Dewey Haines, Arcanum, Ohio—154 bushels—used SWIFT'S.

The Indiana 1914 Boy Champion Corn Grower, Roy Friedersdorf, Elizabethtown, Ind.—128.8 bu.—used SWIFT'S.

Gordon Reap, Elizabethtown, Indiana, who was third last year, is County Champion with 105.73 bushels. He also used SWIFT'S this year.

There certainly MUST be something in Swift's Fertilizers that PRODUCES RESULTS. Swift's blood, bone and tankage fertilizers make prize winners.

If YOU do not use Swift's Fertilizers, you are not sure that you are using the best fertilizer obtainable. You want the best—then buy SWIFT'S—the Red Steer Brand.

HEAT FLASHES, DIZZY, NERVOUS

Mrs. Wynne Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her During Change of Life.

Richmond, Va. — "After taking seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I always had a headache during the change of life and was also troubled with other bad feelings common at that time—dizzy spells, nervous feelings and heat flashes. Now I am in better health than I ever was and recommend your remedies to all my friends."—Mrs. LENA WYNN, 2812 E. O Street, Richmond, Va.

While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such warning symptoms are a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness.

For these abnormal conditions do not fail to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

OLD CUSTOMS TO BE BANISHED

When New Emperor of China is Crowned, it Will Be First Peaceful Coronation in History

IT WILL BE ENTIRELY NEW

Plans Will Likely Not be Formulated Until After Parliament Meets in May or June

(By United Press.)
Peking, April 7.—When Yuan Shih Kai is crowned emperor of China, if he is, it will be the first peaceful coronation in the annals of that empire. The attendant ceremonies will be entirely new to Chinese history, although they have not as yet been formulated and perhaps will not be until the parliament has been called together late in May or early in June.

Every other coronation in China has been either the occasion for the celebration of a military victory and a political overthrow, or it has been attended with mourning over the death of an emperor.

The custom of the Chinese in the case of death of the emperor always has been to announce first that the heir apparent had assumed the crown and then, within three hours, to follow that with the announcement of the death of the emperor.

The announcement of the demise of the ruler always has brought with it a period of three years of national mourning, during which time there have been no national ceremonies or celebrations. At the end of the period of mourning the emperor had merely laid aside his robes of mourning and donned the royal robes.

When the coronation has been the result of a military victory and a political overthrow it always has been an occasion for a military celebration, the announcement of the creation of new nobles, a grand military review and fetes and parades of those who are benefited by the new regime.

These celebrations have been, like all military celebrations, most elaborate.

There has been a great display of the nobles in the Chinese manner, wealth and pomp and the feting of together with an array of the military power of the new ruler and a joyous display of the spoils of war.

It seems most likely, however, that the coronation of Yuan Shih Kai will be a simple and democratic affair, for he has chosen as the name of his reign, "Hung Hsien," which in English means "the reign of the Grand Constitution."

The new emperor has chosen to make his reign one for the people. It is unlikely that he will create any new nobles, and his entrance to office likely will not be attended by any show of regality or superiority over the masses, for this is the very thing the new emperor hopes to obviate when he starts to build the new liberal empire of China, a political government too strong in its unity to be overthrown or weakened by ambitious or party dissension.

Hence it is the opinion here that coronation of Yuan Shih Kai perhaps will be accompanied only by a military review and the delivery of an inaugural address by the emperor.

This is merely a matter of conjecture, however, for the new empire will create its own ceremonies and customs, and will attempt to deviate from those of the imperial powers and dynasties that have gone before.

RECENT FIGHT CAUSES TALK

Some Favor Abolishing Game in New York, While Others Would Increase Length of Bouts.

TWO FACTIONS SPRING UP

Persons Kicking the Hardest Never Even Attended Battle—Hard to Satisfy All.

(By United Press.)
New York, April 7.—The seven rounds of the Willard-Morgan battle in Madison Square Garden March 25 was fast, but not half as fast as the fight talk the fans are now indulging in today.

Buzz, buzz, Willard this, Willard that, Morgan this, Morgan that, goes the gossip where the ringside foretells and the rafter railbirds foregather. The bout busted the gossip wide open. Some think it was a great fight, some think it was rotten; some are for ten round championship bouts every week, others think they should be abolished altogether.

"As a result of the brutal, degrading exhibition of the brute in man at the Willard-Morgan fight," boxing should forever be abolished in New York, says one clan.

"The bout showed conclusively that the city wants boxing and wants it bad. To give the people what they pay for the state should at once permit twenty-round bouts with decision," is the conclusion of another.

In between is a host, and each of the host has an idea of his own. Out of the turmoil few things stand plain. The mill shook New York as no fight in history has. Tom Jones, whose man Willard got away with more than half a hundred thousand dollars, thinks it was a wonderful fight, perfectly staged and arranged and he would like to see things like it recur frequently.

Moran hasn't any kick.

The persons who think it was worth the money are those who paid to see it. The persons kicking the hardest didn't see the mill and probably don't know whether the scrappers used their feet or their hands.

"Tanlac Has Made Young Man Of Me"

Words of Albert Radcliff an Aged Farmer, Ring With Real Joy.

Kokomo, Ind., April 7.—Albert Radcliff, a well-known farmer of advanced age who lives on Rural Route No. 2, Forrest Clinton County, Ind., is in the foremost ranks of the thousands who are praising Tanlac, the Master Medicine. Mr. Radcliff recently said:

"Stomach and liver trouble made me a very sick man for two years. I was awfully constipated and suffered almost constantly from a fullness in my stomach. I didn't eat very much, but what I did eat, did not agree with me. My liver was sluggish. I had an unpleasant taste in my mouth, and my breath was foul.

"Finally my condition became so I couldn't work. I tried almost every medicine sold, but never was able to get relief until I tried Tanlac a few days ago. And I naturally was astonished at the quick relief Tanlac gave me. In three days I felt better and in a week I was able to get out over my farm. Now, my appetite is fine, I enjoy what I eat, and the constipation has been relieved. Tanlac has made a young man of me."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, rheumatism, catarrhal complaints, and is an invigorant, tonic, appetizer, and blood purifier.

Tanlac is sold exclusively in Rushville at F. E. WOLCOTT'S Drug Store.

BIG BATTLE WAS PULLED EARLY

Verdun Attack Was Originally Planned For April, But a Little Sunshine Changed Things.

GERMANS WERE PREPARED

Mid-Winter Dry Spell, A Rarity in France Said to Have Changed in Plans.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
Paris, March 12.—(By Mail)—
"April Showers
Bring May flowers."
You know that one, don't you? Well try this one on your vocal chords: "January suns Bring February guns!"
The German Crown Prince first made the practical application of this truth, but the proverb is ours likewise the versification school histories of 2016 to the contrary notwithstanding.
A close study of the Battle of Verdun proves it to have been a freak of nature, like January strawberries, or peach-blossoms in December.
The Battle of Verdun was planned for April or May, but in the German military plans there was an unless, which, when followed by the remainder of the sentence read: "Unless by some strange atmospheric phenomenon we get a long spell of fine, dry weather before that time."
True to Teutonic traditions or preparedness, as early as December the Germans began bringing up material for use in the attack. Every available big howitzer, including the 305s and the 420s, was hauled to the Verdun sector through which the Crown Prince hoped to make a breach and commence a march on Paris down the historic poplar lined roads following the banks of the Marne. Trenches were dug, ammunition in vast quantities was stored at strategic points and everything in ship shape for springing the big offensive.
Then the January sun came out. Rarest of all rarities in France, a mid-winter dry spell came accompanied by lots of spring like days and sunshine. From January 15 until the middle of February one would have thought May at hand. The "strange atmospheric phenomenon" had come to pass, and the decision to let fly was the result. According to German prisoners they had been told on the eve of the battle:
"The artillery is going to blaze the way for you. It will do its work so completely that all you will have to do will be to march at parade step into Verdun."
They were told, they said that the fighting would not amount to much and it would all be over in no time. Judging from what the German soldiers admit, the Crown Prince's plans must have included a swift punch and a quick victory, with Verdun and outlying forts, as a minimum in German possession. Otherwise, experts are agreed, probably he never would have undertaken the Verdun attack. For, to plan long drawn out operations in which artillery is the mainstay, said operations to be largely dependent upon the foibles of the weather, is more stupid than foolhardy.
So it was that the January suns brought the February guns as per the cute little poem. Pretty weather and daffydowndillies having had the temerity to intrude on the preserves of January and February, the Crown Prince called his staff about him and said: take only a couple of days or so to get to Verdun and then if it rains, who cares?"
So the big battle about Verdun was all because of a little, nice, warm sun shine, which forgot its cue and made its entrance too soon.

Chosen State Statistician

HENRY A. ROBERTS
Carmel, Ind.

There were three entrants in the race for state statistician—Henry A. Roberts of Carmel, A. T. Claypool of Veedersburg and J. L. Peetz, formerly of Monon and now of Indianapolis. Roberts was nominated on the first ballot.

According to German prisoners they had been told on the eve of the battle:
"The artillery is going to blaze the way for you. It will do its work so completely that all you will have to do will be to march at parade step into Verdun."
They were told, they said that the fighting would not amount to much and it would all be over in no time. Physicians Prescription For Rheumatism

Business and professional men of large means, who have taken expensive baths at famous resorts and have spent money lavishly to rid themselves of the tormenting agony of rheumatism have turned to Rheuma and got well.

When Rheuma goes in, poisonous secretions go out. No opiates or narcotics are used. Rheuma drives out the cause of rheumatism and speedily brings comfort and health, and most druggists will admit it.

Two bottles of Rheuma will cost you a dollar of F. B. Johnson's drug store or any druggist, and if this purchase does not bring you the freedom from pain and misery you expected, your money is waiting for you.

AEROPLANES TO DO PATROL DUTY

Bill Provides For a Fleet of Fifty as Auxiliaries to Coast Guard Cutters.

ONE FOR EVERY 100 MILES

Newspaperman Conceived the Idea—Possibilities of Fleet Said to be Great.

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 7.—It was learned today that a fleet of 50 aeroplanes to patrol the Pacific and Atlantic coast as auxiliaries to the U. S. Coast Guard cutters, is the proposition set forth in a bill to be introduced during the present session of Congress. The bill will ask for an appropriation of $500,000 for the purchase and maintenance of the fleet. There are 5000 miles of coast in the U. S. and it is proposed to have an aeroplane stationed every 100 miles.

Lookouts in aeroplanes would be able to sight ships in distress much more readily than the lookouts on board coast guard cutters; and since the air machine can attain a greater speed than the cutters, aid could be despatched to distressed vessels more quickly. It is maintained that these coast guard aeroplanes would be a valuable addition to the military forces in time of war.

The possibilities of this fleet are great. Equipped with searchlights at night they might prove far more adequate than light ships, and it is held that an aeroplane would be of great service to coast guards in carrying breeches buoy lines to ships ashore, when the surf is running too high for the launching of a life boat.

Mayo Dudley, a Washington newspaperman, conceived the idea, and has been instrumental in the drawing up of the bill. Coast guard officials, the Aero Club of America and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Newton have endorsed the proposed bill.

CHARITY WORKERS WANT PENSION LAW

King's Daughters Favor State Law and Pass Resolution Urging Action in Legislature.

PRIVATE FUNDS NOW USED

(By United Press.)

Evansville, Ind., April 7.—At the 1917 legislature for the first time in Indiana a charity organization will be found working for mothers' pensions.

Mrs. J. H. Conn of Evansville, and Mrs. Lewis Orth and Mrs. Malcolm Steele of Terre Haute, have been appointed by the state organization of King's daughters to draw up a resolution endorsing mother's pensions for presentation to the legislature.

Mrs. Conn has suggested that circles in other cities duplicate the work of the six Evansville circles which, in the absence of the state law, have pensioned widows out of their private funds.

"Often have we found good women making a hard struggle rather than give up their children forever to an institution," she said. "Too often have we seen them broken under the burden and defeated. With our funds we can help only a few. So we ask the state to take up the work."

WANT NAME FOR STATE MOVIE

Prize is Offered For Title of Historical Motion Picture For Indiana Centennial.

TO BE SEVEN REEL PICTURE

Title Must Show That Entire History of State is to be Told—Chance For $25.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7.—A "Hoosier-Made" name is needed for the historical motion picture now being produced for use during the Indiana centennial. Indiana people asked today to suggest the proper title for the picture. The announcement carried the attractive feature that the person submitting the accepted title will be paid $25. The film is to be in seven parts or reels and will be about 7,000 feet in length. The first two reels will tell the story of the state from the time of the French explorations until the constitutional convention held in 1816.

The main story of the centennial period from 1816 to 1916 will be told in the five remaining reels. The title to be adopted must show that the entire history of the state is too be told. The Interstate Historical Pictures Corporation, American Central Life building, Indianapolis, which has contracted with the state to produce the picture, will receive all suggested names.
